Marathon finishers prove runners, like fine wine, improve with age

By PAUL WOLF

THERE'S NO way Brad Hawthorne, who claimed his fourth Big Sur Marathon title Sunday morning, could touch the 4:06 mile he ran back in college.

At the same time, however, the 35-year-old from Piedmont considers himself at his peak for the 26.2 miles — the distance of the hilly and scenic race he has come to dominate.

"It's physical; I think you're just stronger when you get to your 30s," said Hawthorne in a phone interview. Hawthorne's time was 2:21:09.

Race results should provide comfort to the thirtysomething crowd, and further proof of what many athletes and coaches have known for some time: speed slips in the third decade, but strength and endurance often build.

Don Paul, 40, an elite distance runner from San Francisco, took it even further. "I think it's clear now that strength increases into your early 40s, and strength is the main determinant in a marathon."

Paul holds the U.S. record for 50 kilometers (about 31 miles), and hopes to qualify for the marathon in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, Spain.

Big Sur race results are consistent with the premise about this particular advantage of aging: seven of the top 10 finishers in the men's division were 31 and older; six of the top 10 for women were 30 and above.

And then there's a more informal observation: Highway 1 on Sunday held a remarkably broad spectrum of not just ages, but body types and running styles as well.

Pacific Grove's own Nellie Wright, 45, who finished sixth with a time of 3:03, enjoyed that spectacle. Three years ago, at 42, she won the race with what was then a women's course record of 2:55:44.

"Women usually start peaking around 35 or 36; that's when they usually start getting strong," said Wright.

She said she could have run faster this year had she been able to taper off her heavy training and racing schedule in recent weeks. "I was not quite recovered," she said.

"When your hamstrings get tight you can't move your legs fast. What I did was I gambled. This could have been a great race, not to win but maybe to have come in second or third."

Wright, who began running at 32, competed in the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics under the banner of her native country, Bolivia. She's com-Continued on page 13

1,500 pay last respects to Bishop Thaddeus Shubsda

By JOHN DETRO

In ENGLISH: "(We) have gained an advocate who stands at the throne of the Lamb of God."

In Spanish: "He was a holy man who loved you."

Catholics throughout this area will long remember the bilingual homily delivered Tuesday at the funeral of Bishop Thaddeus Shubsda, who succumbed to cancer on April 26.

Speaking heartfelt thoughts in the two tongues was Bishop Tod Brown from the Boise (Idaho) Diocese. Bishop Brown had Bishop Shubsda as co-consecrator at the former's ordination and installation as bishop in April 1989.

Tuesday's funeral was held at St. Francis Xavier Church in Seaside. Several prelates, more than 200 clergymen, and 51 Knights of Columbus came down the aisle and paid last respects. Bishop Shubsda was appointed in 1982 for the Monterey Diocese; two main thrusts of his presence were compassionate treatment of AIDS sufferers and farmworker advancement.

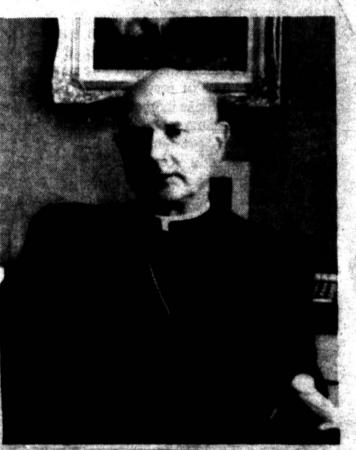

Archbishop Roger Mahony also used both English and Spanish in celebrating the funeral Mass. He called Bishop Shubsda an everyday pastoral minister — "not a man who sought distinction, position, honor."

Shortly after Bishop Shubsda's passing, Monsignor Declan Murphy of Carmel Mission Basilica said: "First and foremost, he was a very spiritual man who dedicated himself to his work and had firm faith in God. He was also a very gentle and kind man; a harsh word was never on his lips."

Later, more than 1,500 people attended Bishop Shubsda's funeral. Interment followed at San Carlos Cemetery.

Bishop Shubsda was born on April 2, 1925, in Los Angeles. He attended public schools there, then entered Los Angeles College Junior Seminary (1939) and St. John's Major Seminary at Camarillo (1944).

He was ordained on April 26, 1950 (last Friday was his 41st anniversary as a priest). A series of posts led him to the spiritual directorship of the Catholic Labor Institute. And he was a board member for the archdiocesan newspaper in Los Angeles.

Pope John Paul II ordained him auxiliary bishop of Los Angeles in early 1977. He became well-known for his works within the Latino community — a commitment which remained when he came to Monterey.

Why had Bishop Shubsda become a priest? "I thought if I could bring joy and happiness to people," he said in 1987, "it would be something very wonderful."

The Monterey Diocese now must appoint an administrator to oversee the diocese until the Vatican chooses a new bishop. The appointment will be made by the 10-priest Board of Consultors.

"This must happen by Monday at the latest," according to official spokesman Ted Elisee.

Eastwood may get some relief at May 7th Carmel council meeting

By DAVID LELAND

In PART, at least, a long-standing feud between the city and Clint Eastwood could be rectified at next week's Carmel City Council meeting.

If all goes as planned, the council will change the classification of the Walter-White Fine Arts gallery from arts and crafts to home furnishings.

The council is scheduled to meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 7, in the council chambers at city hall, located south of Ocean Avenue on Monte Verde Street.

If adopted, the decision, which will be held as part of a public hearing, would pave the way for the prestigious store to take up residence at Eastwood's building, located at Fifth and San Carlos.

During last month's meeting, the council unanimously adopted tentative conditions for the gallery which include:

Limiting merchandise to that which is appropriate for the Service Commercial (SC) district, which serves as a buffer zone between the central commercial and residential districts.

 Items currently on sale in the existing business, which is located directly south of Eastwood's new building, would need to be discontinued.

Eastwood's new office building has stood vacant since being completed about a year ago because of zoning conflicts.

Denial of an actual construction application by the city council in the mid-1980s acted as a catalyst for Eastwood's running for a successful mayoral term.

Eastwood's representative, Alan Williams, has claimed that they were unaware that, when the lot's previous building was demolished, a non-comforming use permit allowing commercial use was invalidated.

However, it was soon discovered that Eastwood's building stood just over an invisible line that separates the Central Commercial (CC) zone from the SC buffer zone.

Opponents of the rezoning classification have argued that it is essential to the village-like atmosphere of Carmel to keep the buffer zone free from commercial uses.

Disastrous ordinance

Dear Editor:

The Carmel City Council proposes to adopt an ordinance on May 7 which constitutes a disaster for a number of property owners in Carmel, unless the council changes its mind.

The ordinance keeps alive a provision first adopted last summer which limits houses to 3,500 square feet, including garage, regardless of the size of the lot.

That may be okay for a lot of 12, 500 swuare feet or so, but what about lots of one half acre, three quarters of an acre, ect.? By the time you take out a two or three-car garage and some storage area you are down less than 3,000 square feet, which means all you can build is a typical tract house with small bedrooms, and little, if any, room for the amenities that people want who have these larger lots such as painting studios, gyms, game rooms, music rooms, etc. it is also very poor planning.

By including garages in the 3,500 square feet, you are motivating people to park their cars on the street, or in their driveways, thus adding to an existing parking problem, and detracting from neighborhood aesthetics.

Whoever came up with 3,500 square feet, to begin with? It certainly wasn't the people who voted for the .45 floor area ratio. Anyone owning a 12,500 plus square foot lot should show up at city hall on May 7 and protest mightly!

Damaging practice

Dear Editor:

We appreciate your continued interest in, and coverage of, the activities of Horse Power Sanctuaries, Inc. and Horse Power International, Inc.

There is currently an embargo on horse meat exported from the United States to the EEC countries for human consumption due to the fact that people have been hospitalized in serious condition after they ate American horse meat.

I would like to add, however, that our groups have discovered that horses awaiting slaughter in Texan slaughterhouses and destined for export, have now been reloaded onto the same inhumane cattle trucks and transported thousands of miles to Canada for slaughter, butchering and export.

Wew hope that your readers will join us in informing the EEC countries that they must be aware that the same drug-and disease-filled meat is still being transported to their countries under the guise of being a Canadian export. Also, they should contact their local Congressman.

The horse slaughter industry has no concern that innocent people are ingesting dozens of different drugs when they eat American horse meat, all of them harmful, many of them deadly.

Horses in thgis country are raised as companions not as food animals, and even routine drugs such as worming medicines state clearly on the packaging that these should not be administered to animals being raised for human consumption and certainly not shipped abroad, when this practice could do immeasurable damage to our export trade.

Sensitive to concerns

Dear Editor:

Hospice has spent much time and money to develop a beautiful and much-needed patient care facility for our community. After studying all the facts about this project, we feel that the Hospice people have been very sensitive to all the environmental concerns regarding this area.

This project has great support in the community. Everyone we have talked to is very much in favor of the plan and the way it has been developed. We're as concerned as anyone about our beautiful area and what is planned for our remaining virgin land.

We can't see any way that this project would open the door for the Pebble Beach Co., or anyone else to further develop the surrounding area. This project is in no way tied in with the Pebble Beach Co.

We have always been a great supporter of the Sierra Club, but we find the tactics used by it in this matter very disturbing. It is inconceivable to me that the Sierra Club would totally ignore the project in the planning stages and then step in at the 11th hour and try to stop it. We feel it is very important for the two groups to work together to find a reasonable solution to this problem. We urge the Sierra Club to drop the lawsuit and work with Hospice to give our community a beautiful and much-needed facility.

'Apples for students'

Dear Editor:

Thank you for putting information in the Pine Cone about River School's participation in Safeway's "Apples for the Students" program.

As the program draws to a close, I thought you and the readers of the Pine Cone would be interested in how we did. We collected $275,587.27 in receipts.

This has enabled us to purchase a computer, printer, and software. We received several envelopes with receipts from residents in the Carmel area, and I certainly would like to thank them for their participation.

Truly enjoyable play

After my neighbor told me how much she enjoyed the school play at Carmel High School The Dining Room by A.R. Gurney, we attended a performance and to my delight experienced a most enjoyable evening.

The play examines the changes in American families and attitudes through a series of both humorous and sad vignettes. The actors each play a number of parts and were well trained and very well prepared; the play's direction was superb and the smooth transition between the numerous scenes was the result of what must have been avery capable production and back

Carmel High School should be congratulated for presenting a truly enjoyable and first class high school play.

Valued opinions

Dear Editor:

Wasn't it nice of Leslie A. Moppa to write and comment about my "garbage" letter. It's things like this that make one realize some folks really do read the Letter to the Editor.

While she was somewhat critical of my position, her comments were very restrained and in extremely good taste. Her advice, while being very definite, was couched in terms which showed a high degree of sensitivity and was in no way offensive.

Most folks would not only suggest I leave the area, but would have suggested a well known place as a destination. Fortunately for me Leslie is not the Kitty Kelley type.

Ashes to ashes

erected in his honor. For the past several years, Worth was deeply involved in an opposition movement attempting to force federal and state officials to abandon plans for a four-lane freeway through the canyon. (Noel Mapstead photo.)

In the garbage area Leslie is apparently much better qualified than I. She is a self-pronounced "hand-on" type when it comes to garbage. I will freely admit that I am not much of a garbage person, never have been, and probably never will be. My experience is mostly confined to peeping on other people's garbage.

I thought your readers would have realized I was only kidding when I wrote I had two friends. Really, I have more, actually four, if it's OK to count my wife and my dog.

Anyway, I-plan to take Leslie's advice and recycle and quit peeping in other people's bins, although as Leslie surmised, I probably won't "have a life" if I am deprived of this small bit of enjoyment.

However, in spite of Leslie's valued opinion, I still think it would be prudent to hide my "girlie" magazines inside the Christian Science Monitor Nil temere novandum!

Support schools

Dear Editor:

Let's support Measure A on the June 4 ballot sponsored by Citizens for Carmel Schools. We cannot neglect the future for our young people. Good education, good teachers, and a happy supportive environment makes better future citizens.

However, I would direct my remarks to our youth who will benefit from our contribution toward the improvements. Is it too much to ask that we expect the best from you? Do not be swayed by the wrong kind of peer pressure. You are in school to learn many things that will better prepare you for tomorrow's world that you will

There should be no need to remind you that smoking, or drinking alcoholic beverages, or using drugs, all do you much harm, both physically and emotionally. The evidence is all around you. We don't want you to be a burden to society. We support you because we love you. So, give life your best shot. We want to be proud of you with your wholesome perspective and goals.

Remember, that after we older folks are gone, you will be the leaders and will be shaping the world you live in. Fundamental principles or integrity, honesty, quality, excellence, patience, and human dignity have universal application and will place you on top of the heap.

Joseph Noto, D.D.S.

Measure A tour set for May 6

IN AN effort to give voters a first-hand look into the many reasons why Measure A has been placed on the June 4 ballot, the Citizens for Carmel Schools has scheduled a public tour of three district schools for 10:30 a.m. Monday, May 6.

The free, 90-minute tour will begin at Carmel Middle School and move by bus to Carmel River School and Carmel High School. The tour will finish with people being returned to their cars at the middle school.

"We want to make certain that people have an opportunity to see for themselves why the passage of Measure A on June 4 is absolutely critical to the future of the Carmel Unified School District," said John Lamb, chairman of Citizens for Carmel Schools. "We'll be looking at classrooms that contain asbestos, buildings that are plagued with leaky, old roofs; playing fields that are riddled with holes; and school buses that, in some cases, are more than 30 years old and have logged more than 40,000 miles."

If approved by voters, Measure A will generate $3.5 million for the CUSD over a maximum of four years. The money would be used for a myriad of capital improvements, including replacing an aging bus fleet, asbestos removal, re-roofing and painting school buildings and refurbishing classrooms and playing fields.

Reservations for the tour can be made by calling Doug Thompson at 373-3793. Due to space limitations, only the first 50 reservations can be accepted.

Hatton Canyon road foes' lawsuit denied as premature; will appeal

By DAVID LELAND

SAVE HATTON Canyon representatives have vowed to appeal a federal decision allowing Caltrans to release its final environmental impact statement for the proposed $34 million freeway.

Last week U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams held that an action, filed by Noel Mapstead, was "premature," but could be taken up again after the final EIS is released.

As proposed, the Hatton Canyon Freeway would begin at Carpenter Street, with a four-lane freeway running through Hatton Canyon. A complicated interchange would exist at Carmel

'At a moment's notice we can take control of the Hatton Canyon Freeway battle.'

Noel Mapstead

Valley Road, with the new section of freeway ending with a bridge spanning the Carmel River.

Mapstead, filing the lawsuit under the nonprofit status of Save Hatton Canyon, had argued that Caltrans and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) had violated federal environmental standards by choosing not to write a supplemental EIS for the project.

He had hoped to hold up release of the final EIS until a supplemental EIS could be prepared.

"The dismissal is not a loss; it's a procedural motion," said Mapstead, who has spearheaded a movement opposing the 3.1-mile stretch of road through the canyon. "We knew when we went into the lawsuit that it could be premature."

Mapstead argued that bickering between state and federal agencies over the final EIS has caused the draft EIS to become obsolete during the past four years.

Moreover, the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) dictates that if the final EIS is not issued within three years of the draft EIS, federal officials must re-evaluate whether the draft is to be supplemented.

But the federal court held that Mapstead was merely speculating that FHWA had decided not to supplement its EIS.

Citing case law, Williams reasoned that the FHWA could not be brought to court until it officially declared that a supplemental would not be issued.

"Where an agency is studying whether or not to take action, the matter is not yet ripe for judicial intervention," wrote Williams, citing the 1979 decision of Committee Against Railroad Relocation vs. Adams.

When the FHWA issues a Record of Decision (ROD), Mapstead may take up the matter in court again, Williams said.

"Clearly, the 'final agency action' requirement was intended to prevent courts from interfering with an agency's decision-making process at every stage," wrote Williams in his decision. "The decision not to supplement a draft EIS is but one rung in the ladder leading to an ultimate decision regarding federal funding of the project."

FHWA officials this week said they are unclear when the final document will be filed.

Williams stopped short, however, of eliminating Save Hatton Canyon's legal remedies.

"Dismissing (the) plaintiff's complaint will not deprive (the) plaintiff of an opportunity to challenge the FHWA's decision not to supplement the draft EIS," he wrote. "If the FHWA decides to issue a final EIS, the plaintiff may challenge the decision at that time. If the court finds that a supplement should have been prepared...it can find...that the final EIS violated NEPA."

But Mapstead said he is choosing not to wait for the final EIS to be released, and is forging ahead with an appeal in the 9th District Court of Appeals in San Jose.

"There is no case law existing for what we are trying to do," said Mapstead, vowing to take the case all the way to the Supreme Court. "At a moment's notice we can take control of the Hatton Canyon Freeway battle."

City administrator Doug Schmitz turns down Seal Beach position

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL CITY Administrator Doug Schmitz has turned down an offer from the City of Seal Beach to become its new city manager.

Schmitz, who took over as city administrator of Carmel in 1983, cited political turmoil as his principal reason for not accepting the position.

"I was concerned about the depth of the political strife," said Schmitz, 39. "I'm not sure that, in the foreseeable future, it will get turned around to the point where a city manager could direct the city in a new direction."

The five-member Seal Beach City Council, three of whom are slow-growth, have been battling

CITY ADMINISTRATOR Doug Schmitz said political in-fighting among council members influenced his decision not to accept an offer from Seal Beach officials to become their city manager.

Mola Development Co., as well as themsleves, over a proposal to build 329 homes on what some consider to be wetlands and earthquake-fault ridden for several years.

"We have a persistent developer down here," said Seal Beach City Councilwoman Marilyn Hastings, who initiated contact with Schmitz.

Schmitz was one of 72 applicants from nationwide to pursue the position during a two-month selection process. The field had been narrowed down to five when Schmitz was selected as the city's No. 1 choice.

Hastings said she was disappointed in Schmitz's decision not to take the helm of Seal Beach, a Southern California coastal town of about 25,000 people.

Before coming to Carmel, Schmitz served as assistant city manager in Bellvue, Wash., a city of 75,000.

Had Schmitz taken the position in Seal Beach, he would have been no stranger to the area. Before relocating to Washington, he served as assistant city manager-director of community development for the city of Laguna Beach, where he was born.

"He interviewed exceedingly well," said Hastings, referring to an in-person interview that recently took place in the Southern California city. "We would have loved to have him; we liked him very, very much."

Instead, Paso Robles City Manager Jerry Bankston will take over as Seal Beach City Manager on June 5, Hastings said.

Schmitz's position in Carmel is budgeted at $71,760 for the coming year, while Seal Beach set its city manager's salary at $77,700 for the same period.

Hastings said Schmitz's slow-growth views made him an odds-on favorite early on in the selection process.

Hastings added that the selection committee conducted telephone interviews with local slow-growth advocates such as David Maradei and Carmel City Councilwoman Barbara Brooks.

Hastings said Seal Beach's interim city manager, who took over earlier this year, lacked the necessary experience to lead the city against those favoring growth.

"It's better to have somebody that has been a city manager and knows the ropes," she said.

Carmel musicians take top honors at Monterey jazz fest competition

By JOHN DETRO

MAYBE IT'S a matter of genetics. Emotional support at home doesn't hurt a bit.

Cindy Sagen remarks with pride that her mother was the first female vibraharp player in the Oakland Musicians' Union. Cindy and husband Kit love jazz; this deeply American music fills their house regularly.

And their son Matt, 16-year-old junior at Carmel High, won the Student All-Star piano slot last weekend when Monterey Jazz Festival held its 21st annual and statewide High School Jazz Competition at the fairgrounds.

Another Carmel High lad, Zack Joseph, captured a chair in the All-Stars trumpet section. Zack's 17 and a junior too.

Big bands, combos and vocal groups showed their stuff at public concert situations since the fest invited all comers to enjoy the high-energy show free of charge. But All-Star candidates performed in closed auditions with pro jazz players who serve as judges. Checking out young pianists, for example, was Tee Carson, picked long ago by Bill Basie to share keyboard chores in the late master's orchestra.

Matt must have played exceptionally well. Winner of the alternate pianist slot was Kito Gamble, strong performer from Berkeley High who already has done many paid jobs with her mother, the jazz vocalist Faye Carol. (Alternates are chosen in case winners can't make the All-Star Japan tour taken each July; All-Stars also get full scholarships to the Summer Jazz Camp of Youth Music Monterey.)

Mike Shannon of Carmel High was rewarded with the alternate drummer's slot. Monterey High's Tanya Darby was named trumpet section alternate. Scott Larson and David Burns from Aptos High both won chairs in the trombone section.

"Wow," Matt said at home when informed by a phone caller of his victory. "I really had no idea that I would make it. I almost didn't go out because of the competition last year. Right now I'm pretty speechless."

"I can't believe it," Zack said. "I'm surprised and excited. I'll plan vacation travels to get back in time for the Japan trip. Music's the international language; now I'll get a chance to prove it."

El Cerrito High won the Big Band Division, while Berkeley's tight and fiery unit walked off with Combo Division honors. Folsom High topped the list of jazz choir entrants. (The winning big band takes home $1,000 for its music program; combo and vocal victors claim $500 apiece.)

El Cerrito's triumph amounted to a last hurrah. That school's in the financially ruined Richmond District. "I think they'll try for a greatly-reduced music program in the fall," said Band Director Paul Yonemura. "As for me, I'll take some graduate classes."

Monte Carlo Night will ring up bucks for valley youth center

By SUSAN BECK

How Do you get to a French Riviera Casino for $15? Just follow the crowds in Carmel Valley on Saturday evening.

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center is holding its Ninth Annual Monte Carlo Night. from 8 to midnight, Saturday, May 4 at the Hidden Valley Art Institute on Carmel Valley Road, just before the village.

There will be an oyster bar, elegant buffet, drinks, and "everybody's a winner," said the center's director, Kathleen Tarp.

At the end of the evening the person with the most chips from playing roulette, craps, blackjack, or the slot machines, will have first choice at the grand prizes, which include nights at Ventana, Highlands Inn, Reno, golf fees at courses such as Poppy Hills and Rancho Canada, tickets to Disneyland, and more.

Throughout the evening at different times, the person who is winning at any one of the 10 to 15 gambling tables will get a prize. Also, there are seven chances to win a raffle, not to mention the chance to join in the fun on Monte Carlo Night, said Tarp. "We expect it to be the very biggest and the best!"

Most of the merchants in the village individually donated $250 to cover the cost of the event, such as gambling tables, said Tarp. "We appreciate the merchants who really care. We need to give back to them what they have given to us. We urge everyone on the peninsula to partronize their stores and frequent their restaurants. They are the core of our existence, and without them we could not do this," said Tarp.

The most important reason to go to Monte Carlo Night is because it is the largest fund-raiser for the valley youth center and represents 20 percent of its annual $100,000 budget, said

The proceeds from Monte Carlo Night will help run the youth center's pool and park, as well as renovate buildings. Tarp said that the building that is used for the center's office and meeting rooms was built in 1938 and has "never been touched" since 1954.

The plans are to paint, carpet, remodel the kitchen and bathroom, and expand to provide more meeting space for the community. "We're stuck in a time warp and need to get out," said Tarp.

The long-range plans are to build a multipurpose facility with a gym for sports activities, a stage for the performing arts, weight room, and snack bar, said Tarp. "The valley's youth population has outgrown it, and it is completely inadequate."

Recently, the volunteer board of directors applied to various foundations for funding the the project. Also, they have hired an architect to prepare a master plan for the future youth center which will cost about $10,000.

"A master plan will ensure the community's goals and secure progression of development. It will keep everyone going in the same direction no matter who is on the board," said Tarp.

The center sent a survey on the multi-purpose facility to all residents in Carmel Valley. "The response was overwhelming. I want to go for the works, and make the youth center the hub of Carmel Valley for people to unite," said Tarp.

"If you've got gambling fever, don't miss this

Deferring of walk-in fees at Point Lobos credited to citizens

By MAC McDONALD

LOCAL RESIDENTS are claiming a victory in their battle with a state agency in eliminated newly assessed walk-in/bike-in fees at Point Lobos state reserve.

"We had a local victory, a great victory," said state Assemblyman Sam Farr last week about the decision by Henry Agonia, director of the state Department of Parks and Recreation, to rescind the less than four-month-old fees at the popular reserve.

The fees, which were levied starting in January of this year, were the object of intense grassroots opposition from park users. Spearheaded by Robert Greenfield of Carmel, more than 1,500 signatures were collected on petitions submitted to Farr.

'The state parks department was trying to balance their budget on the backs of Point Lobos users. But the people decided they weren't going to take it and did something about it.'

- Sam Farr

Farr then presented the petitions to the state parks director, who controls the setting of fees at all state parks.

"The people of the Monterey Peninsula are to be applauded for their efforts to get these fees deferred," Farr said. "Local opposition to the fees showed the bureaucrats that their policy was wrong, that the fees did little more than restrict public access to one of the most beautiful sections of California's coastline."

According to a terse press release from the parks department, however, the petitions were not mentioned as being a factor in the decision to defer fees.

"Reasons for the decision to defer such collection include the department's inability to obtain permits to install fee collection devices in some locations, and a desire to hold a series of public meetings prior to changing the fee schedule or collecting fees at new locations," the one-page, three-paragraph release said.

"The petitions were taken into consideration, but they were not the reason for deferral," said Larry Paynter, state parks spokesman, in a phone interview Wednesday. "Revenues that had been collected were minimal and the lack of consistent statewide application has caused a misunderstanding with the public."

When asked why Farr would place credit for the decision on the shoulders of the petition drive, Paynter said, "It's anybody's interpretation."

The walk-in/bike-in fees charged at Point Lobos were assessed in only six other state parks in California and were seen by the parks department as a way of raising funds to help fill the approximately $16 million gap in their portion of the ailing state budget.

"It was a stupid idea for the parks department to assess fees (at Point Lobos)," Farr said, "We don't charge people to walk into city parks or on beaches."

The fees did little to help erase the huge deficit.

"The state parks department was trying to balance their budget on the backs of Point Lobos users," Farr said. "But the people decided they weren't going to take it and did something about it. I am very impressed with their efforts. They did a great job."

Point Lobos, a 1,325-acre (including 750 underwater acres), state reserve located three miles south of Carmel off Highway 1, up until January, charged fees for motorized vehicles, but not walkers or bicyclists. Visitors would often park their vehicles outside the park and walk in to avoid fees.

Fees at Point Lobos are $5 per vehicle ($4 for seniors). In January the park started charging $2 per walker or bicyclist over 17 to enter the park ($1 for ages 6-17 and under 6 free), an action that provoked outrage in the community.

The walk-in/bike-in fees were dropped as of April 26, according to a Point Lobos spokesperson.

Voter registration deadline is May 6 for ballot Measure A

THE DEADLINE to register to vote in the Carmel Unified School District's Special Election is Monday, May 6.

Carmel area voters will be voting on Measure A, a parcel tax measure to raise funds for such things as new buses and capital improvements. A two-thirds majority is needed for the measure to be approved.

Voters may register at the Election Department, 201 Main St., Salinas, or forms may be picked up at a variety of public locations throughout the county.

In Carmel, forms will be available at city hall.

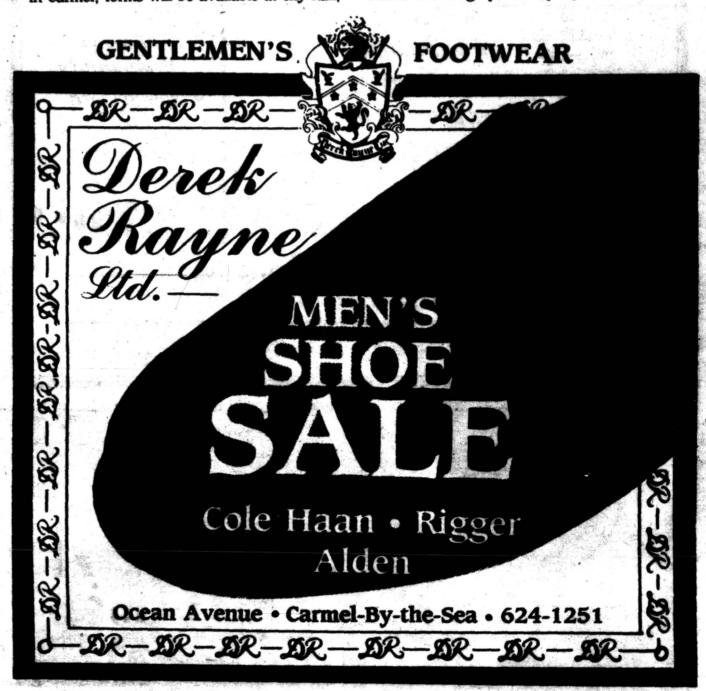

the library and post office. In Carmel Valley, forms will be available at the post office at the mouth of the valley, at the CUSD office off Carmel Valley Road, and the post office in Carmel Valley at 11 Via Contenta in Carmel Valley Village.

Voters may also call 647-7621 from the Monterey Peninsula and a form will be mailed to them. The Secretary of State also maintains a toll-free registration line at 1-800-345-8683.

Forms must be signed, dated and mailed by May 6 to be accepted.

To be eligible to vote a person must be a citizen of the United States, a resident of California, at least 18 years old on the date of the election and not be in prison or on parole for the conviction of a felony.

A person must re-register to vote whenever he or she moves, changes his or her name or wishes to change political party affiliation.

Go against the grain. Cut down on salt.

Adding salt to your food could subtract years from your life. Because in some people salt contributes to high blood pressure, a condition that increases your risk of heart is particularly necessary if your soil happens to be sandy (as is the case in many areas around Carmel). With sandy soil, add plenty of humus as well as compost. I do use compost each time I plant, often supplemented with other soil amendments.

To get a good rich compost, use a plastic compost bin (or you can make your own if you are handy). On the bottom, start with a layer of a little soil, then add all raw vegetable waste except artichokes. string beans or other tough vegetables, potatoes or potato peel.

Also add all your garden clippings which are not diseased (no mildew, aphids, etc.). When a few inches of these materials have accumulated, add a layer of steer manure followed by a layer of soil. You can use "compost maker" or commercial fertilizers. however, I have found that these fertilizers kill earthworms which I prefer to have in abundance in my compost.

Aerate the mixture well by turning it frequently. Sprinkle with water at least once per week, but never soak. Once the mixture is well broken down, it will look like rich, loose soil. Remove the compost from the bottom first, and use it liberally in pots as well as in your bedding areas.

City council

In OTHER action at its May 7 meeting, the council is scheduled to:

Receive a report regarding proposals for the promotional brochure authorized at its February meeting.

The council is also expected to authorize the project to proceed.

 Hear an appeal from the Carmel Planning Commission from Cactus Jack's to sell T-shirts in the San Carlos Avenue restaurant.

Cactus Jack's appellant Steve Whitfill is arguing that the city has unfairly singled out his restaurant because of one complaint.

At its March 13 meeting, however, the planning commission held that the city's zoning code forbids the restaurant from selling T-shirts emblazoned with Cactus Jack's logo.

Hear a planning commission appeal from nationally recognized artist George Rodrique to open an art gallery in the Jorgenson Building at Sixth Avenue between Lincoln and Dolores streets.

During its April 24 meeting, the planning commission was unable to reach a quorum to hear the issue.

 Consider a planning commission recommendation that requires an environmental impact report for installation of new pipe by the California-American Water Co.

Despite assurances from Cal-Am officials that the 30-inch water main would not be growthinducing, the planning commission unanimously found that it would be imprudent not to study the matter further.

Cal-Am, as part of a $5.75 million project, plans to upgrade the 31,830 feet of pipe that carries water to peninsula users from Carmel Valley.

In Carmel, Cal-Am's application asks for permission to replace a 22-inch water main from the Carmel Gate at Pebble Beach on San Antonio Avenue to Ocean Avenue. The line would then run east on Ocean Avenue and diagonally across Mountain View to Mission Trail Park.

Cal-Am maintains that, by replacing the leaky pipes, pumping costs will be reduced by $273,000 a year.

COMING OF AGE

By Jennifer Dyer

Travels with Mom or — The Impossible Dream

THE GREAT search begins Saturday morning, at 9 sharp. She's snuggled up in bed, blissfully snoozing without the threat of another school day before her. Suddenly, the door is flung open and a furious mother storms in, strips the bed and its occupant of the sheets, and blackmails her out of bed with a dire threat. "If you aren't ready to go in 15 minutes, young lady," she snarls, "we will not go shopping for that prom dress — not now, not ever." Fifteen minutes later, you are ready to start one of the world's most difficult adventures — the search for the perfect prom dress.

There are those who believe that a suitable prom dress can be found with a minimum of fuss and time (mostly fathers). Unfortunately, modern society bows to an entirely new set of conventions which have virtually carved the search for a prom dress into an expensive and time-consuming stone. It's possible — if she's a perfect size 6 that is, and looks wonderful in blue and purple Scotch plaid — to find a dress at a good price quickly. But most girls go about searching for a dress in a manner similar to undertaking major surgery. They count their dollars first, take along a parent or friend for support, and leave the whole day free.

There are two primary requirements that a girl needs to consider when shopping for a prom dress. The first, and probably most important, is making sure she looks decent in the dress. (Actually, looking fabulous is preferable, but after personally encountering dresses in three different malls and five major department stores, I can positively state that this could be very difficult, unless you're Elizabeth Taylor, or maybe Julia Roberts.)

The second major requirement is that a girl's dress must not be found on any other girl at the same prom. This is nearly impossible to achieve. The best way to circumvent such extreme public humiliation is to custom-make one's dress (prohibitively expensive), shop outisde the Monterey Peninsula (dreadfully time-consuming), or to shop in one of Carmel's pricey boutiques (where my mother told the saleswoman that she would only pay that much for a wedding dress). Beyond these options, anything goes!

Shopping for a dress is painful and requires a trusty mother's advice. Rare is the father who can put up with a picky daughter for 10 or 12 hours (No, Dad, can't you see that it's too short/too long/too flashy/too plain/too old/too young/too cheap/too expensive). Thus the mother usually accompanies her daughter.

Some mothers look at prom time as the perfect opportunity to get to know their daughters. There are few other chances for a mother to spend a full day with her child. She usually only gets to spend a few minutes a day with her, commonly at mealtimes or when she's not on the phone with her prom date, and then the conversation is not particularly thought-provoking or soul-revealing.

The dress search begins at whatever shopping center the daring duo proposes to visit first. In the beginning, the hunt is fun — trying on different dresses, twirling in front of the mirror — but by the fifth dressing room, the game grows old fast. Mother quickly becomes an old pro at finding the only dress that isn't in the daughter's size. Daughter quickly discovers that she's too fat (too skinny/too tall/too short), to fit into any dress. She'll just have to call up poor old Bob (Chad/Chris/Jack/Lew), and tell him she can't go to the prom with him because she can't find a dress. And so it goes.

And then the unthinkable happens. At the last shop, where the dresses are hanging from the ceiling and plastic rock is blaring from a pink stereo, the perfect dress will be hanging serenely in the corner. And it's not too expensive. And not only does Mother like it, so does Dad. Which means poor (after the prom), old Bob (Chad/Chris/Jack/Lew) will have a date after all.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home — whether it be for six months or the whole year — while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home.

Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.

peted in a number of championship marathons and shorter road races since then.

Hawthorne said hills are to the advantage of a runner like himself, who has a few more years on him. He said the younger, faster runners, excelling at 5 and 10 kilometers (3.1 and 6.2 miles), have an advantage over him on flatter marathon courses.

Big Sur, of course, is not one of those.

When pitting runners in their teens and 20s against those in their 30s, there are other factors besides the purely physical.

Hawthorne said younger runners tend to focus on high school and college track, so it is only when they get older that they start thinking seriously about road running.

"Most runners don't even think about a marathon until their track days are over," he said.

With maturity often comes a more stable lifestyle, essential for the kind of steady training serious marathon runners need, he added.

"It's almost as much mental as it is physical," said Marty Post, statistics editor of Runner's World magazine. "You have to have experience, maturity and poise — not to go out too fast."

Post noted some outstanding examples of the late-blooming tendency of marathon runners.

The gold medal winner of the 1984 Olympic Games was Carlos Lopes of Portugal. He was 37. The next year he set a world record of 2:07.12. It has since been trimmed down 22 seconds by somewhat younger athletes.

Last year, one John Campbell, then 41, set the master's record (40 and up), with a scorching 2:11:04.

The difference between the best master's performance and the best all-around, Post said, "is only a few seconds a mile, which is rather insignificant."

For sprinters, he said, their peak is in their early 20s. For middle distance runners, it's the late 20s and early 30s. For marathon runners, it's their mid-30s.

But more important than winning and breaking records is just doing it. The results show excellent showings for all age categories, up to age 74 for men and 69 for women. The bulk of the runners, who are mainly not competitive, were somewhere in the neighborhood of middle age or close to it.

Any healthy person can run, explained Nellie Wright. "It doesn't take any equipment. You can do it anywhere, anytime, even on vacation."

And Marty Post of the running magazine said, "You don't have to be young to break records."

PUBLIC HEARING

The Board of Directors of Monterey-Salinas Transit will hold a public hearing to receive public comment on the re-routing of lines 4-CARMEL RANCHO and 5-CARMEL PONT.

The proposed changes involve re-routing line 4 off of San Carlos Street and onto Monte Verde Street in Carmel. This change would restore two-way service all day long between downtown Carmel and the Carmel Point area.

The proposed changes also involve re-routing of lines 4 and 5 off of Carpenter Street and onto Highway One between Highway 68 and Ocean Avenue. This change is necessary to allow time to restore service to Carmel Point. Carpenter Street will continue to be served by line 24 hourly in each direction.

The hearing will be held in conjunction with the regular MST Board meeting on Monday, May 13, 1991 at 9:30 a.m. at the Monterey City Hall Council Chambers. Monterey City Hall is located at Pacific and Jefferson Streets and can be reached by MST line 3 or any MST route serving the Jules Simoneau Transit Plaza.

Interested persons who are unable to attend the hearing may submit written comments to:

Sonia A. Rosete, Secretary Monterey-Salinas Transit One Ryan Ranch Road Monterey, CA 93940

Soma a) Roset
Sonia A. Rosete
Secretary to the Board

Written comments received before May 13, 1991 will be made part of the hearing record.

True Grit

I IME MAGAZINE recently ran a cover with a pair of old work boots, a braided rug and a bicycle, carrying the headline "Back to the Simple Life." America's latest trend is to jump off the fast track and plop in the country somewhere, rejecting the fast lane and accourrements of the yuppie years.

A new Hearst publishing experiment called Countryside is the magazine of choice for this wave of BMW-driving settlers. Articles in the Winter 1990 issue include true-life experiences, (stories of a Citicorp banker turned organic farmer, a former Wall Street lawyer now practicing in Wyoming and a mail-order magnate who fled Boston for the Napa Valley), visits to real farms and a series of short pieces on nature and conservation. Great photos, slick paper. But, there are no stories on:

Ticks.

What to do when your teenager refuses to shower because the well water smells like rotten eggs.

How to streamline the wood-chopping-burning-cleaning-out-thewood stove process.

What to do when a lizard greets you at the top of the stairs and then runs under your bed.

The difference between DG, DE and GPM. DE is diatomaceous earth, used to filter swimming pools. DG is decomposed granite, used to cover chalk-rock dusty driveways. GPM is gallons-perminute, used to determine how much water is coming out of the well.

How to get the car up the driveway after the rain has turned the top layer of DG into a slippery, sticky substance resembling duck liver pate.

No-see'ems. Mosquitoes envy them. No-see'ems never get caught, even though they fly in mouths, ears, eyes and noses.

Water czars, and how they try to control your life and the GPMs. How to get back to sleep after you have chased a bat out of your bedroom.

Dirt and how to come to terms with it.

Composting. Composting can be sophisticated or simple: separating out organic kitchen waste and then mixing, watering and turning it religiously, or tossing the Christmas tree over the deck every year.

How to dress for success and still get all the chores done before your first appointment. Tip: keep a towel in the car at all times to wipe barnyard dirt off your shoes.

What to do when a swarm of bees decides to crash your pool par-All the DE in the world won't filter insects.

What to do when you need: an egg, an extra bale of hay, advice, another team for horseshoes - call a neighbor, even if he or she is a mile away. There's more community in country than on Wall Street.

NETWORKING

The Women's Network "Woman of the Year" committee did what many selection panels find difficult. They kept their secret. PWN President Mary Looram was totally surprised when her name was announced as the "Woman of the Year" at the annual dinner held at the Monterey Sheraton, Looram had previously served as chairman of the Membership Committee, and was credited for actively promoting the network on the peninsula.

Mary believes so much in networking as a way for women to support one another she sometimes has to stop herself from sounding like a walking commercial. But she knows it works.

She remembered Nancy Lindemeyer, editor of Victoria magazine and coaxed her to fly out from New York to be the special guest speaker at the event. Looram arranged for complimentary accommodations for Lindemeyer at a local Victorian inn and table favors from a national retailer. Lindemeyer was informative and witty and told how she sold her concept of a different women's magazine to a national publisher.

MORE and more people are getting fax machines for the home. The first week can be tough on friends of the first-time faxer. New faxers like to send goofy messages, then call to see if the transmission came through legibly. It takes new faxers a while to figure out all the buttons (they usually don't waste time reading the directions), so when the pro faxer answers the phone and no one's there, they know it's because their friend is trying to fax to the wrong number. Pros can tell new faxers are almost broken in when they call up and ask technical questions like, "Did you notice if my last transmission to you had my name printed on it?"

SURVIVAL of the fittest. That sea otter you saw last week with a Budweiser can in its cute little paws is merely foraging. Otters have learned how to open discarded aluminum cans to pry out tender octopus that have taken up residence inside.

PEEPS

PLANNING a dinner party? Who do you call? David Beckwith. The best-kept secret in town is chef David Beckwith. Whether it's a gala soiree or a party dinner party, Beckwith is frequently the chefbehind-the-scenes responsible for serving local VIPs the latest in mouth-watering morsels.

Gov. Pete Wilson, a frequent visitor to the peninsula, has sampled Beckwith's brand of California cuisine more than once. Wilson was recently a guest at a private dinner party in Pebble Beach that was catered by Beckwith. A menu of Monterey Bay prawns, linguini and pesto, herb-crusted lamb with polenta in bell pepper and onion confit, lemon mousse souffle with blueberry sauce, chocolate almond torte and fresh raspberries with lemon creme fraiche should be shared. David Beckwith's food is good. Pass it on.

SILVER Circle, Gold Circle. Do those words ring any bells? Youth Music Monterey is hosting a dinner for crooner-artist Tony Bennett at The Lodge at Pebble Beach on Saturday, May 18. Bennett is celebrating his 40th anniversary in the entertainment business. He's got 10 years on Luciano Pavarotti, who celebrated his 30th here in March.

Bennett will be in town for the 11th anniversary of Simic Galleries in Carmel where he will premiere his newest limited edition print, "Central Park," Friday, May 17 and Saturday, May 18. A portion of the proceeds of the original and print art sales and all proceeds from the dinner will benefit Youth Music Monterey. For information on the art show call Simic Galleries, 624-7522. To reserve a seat at the special dinner with Tony at The Lodge, call Youth Music Monterey at 375-1992. Tickets in the Silver ($75), Gold ($100), and Bennett Circles ($125), are available. If you want to sit at Tony's table, that can be arranged. A word of caution. If you go to The Lodge, don't take the bus.

ACADEMY Award winner Michael Blake made an appearance at Lovers Point in Pacific Grove this week to participate in a memorial service sponsored by the Mountain Lion Preservation Foundation for the helpless animals that were shot at point-blank range by trophy hunters at the Monterey County ranch of Floyd Lester Patterson II.

Blake, who won an Academy Award for the screenplay of his novel Dances With Wolves, issued a statement prior to the event, "I feel the deepest pity for the organizers and the executioners of this destruction. They are people who have lost their souls.

"This monstrous tragedy is proof that we are out of time. We must begin to regain respect for the natural world, and the first appropriate step is to grieve."

Those attending the memorial service observed a minute of silence for the leopards, Bengal tigers, jaguars and American mountain lions that were shot by trophy collectors.

BOB Bebermeyer and members of the Monterey Peninsula Flycasters invited fisher people to "Cast Your Fate to the Wind," or in the case of so many novice anglers, the nearest tree branch, at one of the "Private Affaires" sponsored by Legal Services for Seniors. #### Building a foundation

THE FIRST Murphy House is ready to be set down on its new foundation. Since the restoration groundbreaking on April 1, volunteers have been working steadily to prepare the little house for the completion of its construction phase:

Project Director Enid Sales is general contractor for the restoration. She credits the successful work to date both to the tireless efforts of the workers, and to the generous donations and encouragement of local businesses and individuals.

Bill Swift and Ed Riddell, general contractors, have been acting as on-site contractors for the month of April. Jim Kane and Kent Clucci have donated many hours of their carpentry and construction in readying the house and its new foundation. Robin Way has also donated carpentry work.

Kudos to Joe De Maria, who contributed all of the time-consuming block work on the foundation.

Many businesses have donated materials or given a healthy price discount to the restoration project. Hearty thanks go to Bert Dinner of A-1 Rents for their generous discount on equipment rentals, and to Mike Martin of Granite Rock for their "good deal" on foundation materials.

Carmel Disposal has contributed a free debris box to the effort, thanks to Jim Carroll, Don Campbell, of Knapp Hardware on Mission Street, very kindly donated a box of much-needed saw blades. M.J. Murphy, Inc., of Carmel Valley, continues to be a wonderful source of supplies.

Cate Electric hooked up the electrical supply to the worksite; additionally, Steve and Mike Cate's future wiring of the house is gratefully anticipated by the First Murphy Committee.

The First Murphy is scheduled to be set onto its foundation this coming week; the next project phase will commence immediately

Often locals and tourists alike, unfamiliar with the project and curious about the house's destiny, are charmed to hear that the First Murphy will become a casual public gathering-place. "Every city should have a house like this!" one visitor was heard to

The follow-up question is usually about the funding for this imaginative project, or an automatic assumption that the public's tax money is being utilized. They are amazed upon being informed that the city, showing an open hand and great foresight, volunteered use of its property as a location, but that all restoration is being performed with donated funds, labor, and materials.

The resulting restored First Murphy House and the city's surrounding First Murphy Park will combine to become an invaluable and useful asset to Carmel-by-the-Sea, and a proud reminder of our cultural heritage.

Dealing with the loss of a pet

As MUCH as we hate even thinking about it, the death of a pet is something we all have to face eventually whether you've shared a long, happy life together or you've been best friends and companions for a short time, saying goodbye is a terribly sad thing to face.

Sometimes it seems that the pain just won't end and many people say they'll never have another pet. That's when you must put aside your own feelings, forget about "self," and think about taking another little life into your home. Everyone grieves in their own way and some take longer than others to heal, but there's no better way than to find another little soul who needs you.

I have pictures of my angels - past and present - all around the house and it helps me to see their sweet faces. I remember all of the joy they brought to my life and I dwell on the happiness that I gave them. It warms my heart to know that I was able to save them from abandonment and give them so much love and everything good. They had the best and knowing that, uplifts my thoughts because they didn't want for anything. With those thoughts, I'm able to help more and that's the important idea to hang onto. Thank God I'm in a position to help more and more and more - because they just keep rolling in!

Following are three books that may help you deal with the loss of a pet. If you can't find them at your bookstore, contact the publisher or ask your bookstore to place a special order for you. Joy in a Wooly Cat, Julie Adams Church, (H.J. Kramer Inc., Dept.

A SAFE YARD CAN BE A PRETTY YARD

Say, folks, you'd be surprised how many people call us to adopt a pet and when we ask about fencing, they tell us their fence is only 4 inches high. We have to shake our heads and say, "no way." You can't expect a 4 inch fence to contain any medium-to-largesized dog! I know that the idea of completely replacing the fence could be out of the question. Yet, how many times have I heard, "We just put this one in, for God's sake!"

Well, we have a great idea we want to share that will not only make your yard safer, it will beautify it, too. Use lattice! I've used it in many, many areas on my property, and I can't tell you how many times we've made this recommendation to others and it works beautifully. Lattice is practical and inexpensive and best of all, it makes your yard safe for your dog. Try this, I guarantee you'll love it!

LOVING HOMES WANTED

It's difficult to capture the adorable personalities of our orphans on film and photographs never seem to do them justice, so we've decided to tell you about some of our doggies in the hope that you'll call us and take the time to come see them in person.

CHELSEA: Spayed female Australian Shepherd cross, 1 and a half years old, with one blue eye and one brown; very intelligent, great-looking, short-haired, medium-sized. A terrific girl who must be the only pet in the family.

MISKEY: Neutered male Queensland Heeler mix, 1 and a half years, loving and gentle, adores other dogs and children. CHIP: Neutered male Cocker Spaniel, 6 years, fabulous taupe and brown coloring. A beautiful, loving boy and, by the way, AKC.

BEAR: Neutered male/black Chow mix, 1 and a half years, trained, very playful, a real clown.

CHELSEA ANN: Spayed female, medium-sized German Shepherd, 2 years, loving, sweet and protective.

in Pacific Grove to discuss the current California budget crisis and more specifically Proposition 98 and education funding.

Prop 98 was approved by voted in 1988 and guarantees that 40 percent of the state's budget will be appropriated each year for education. Because California is facing a $13 billion deficit, legislators are looking closely at the options available in order to balance the budget. One of the options presented by Gov. Pete Wilson has been to suspend Prop 98, thereby opening the education budget to reductions in order to balance the state budget.

Farr is a member of the Assembly Education Committee. The focus of the meeting will be to dicuss the budget process and Prop 98. He will also discuss ways that parents, teachers and students can help make their demands known by lobbying the state capitol. The meeting is free and open to all interested persons.

Steelhead status

It's EARTH Week 1991, so let's talk about the prized natural resource — the Carmel River steelhead — and one person who is personally and professionally committed to saving them.

The "March Miracle" rains that led the Carmel River to the sea for the first time since 1987 were reason for much celebration. Not only was the frothing river a magnificent sight, its entrance into the Pacific Ocean bode well for our water supply.

Some celebrants, like Monterey Peninsula Water Management District fisheries biologist Dave Dettman, were happy because ocean-going adult steelhead had their first chance in four years to migrate upstream naturally to spawn in the Carmel River. Recall that Dave designed and organized an effort to build a fish attraction ladder on Carmel River State Beach in March 1990. Having Mother Nature do the work (with a little help from Monterey County) was a lot easier!

STEELHEAD LIFE-CYCLE SIMILAR TO SALMON

The steelhead life-cycle is similar to that of salmon, except steelhead adults don't die after spawning. In winter eggs are laid in "nests" in gravelly river bottoms, then the male fertilizes them. The young grow in the river for at least a year until they become "smolts." At this point in time, usually in spring, smolts are ready to migrate downstream into the ocean, where they remain for several years until they are sexually mature. Then, their mysterious instinct brings adult fish back to their birth stream to spawn and repeat the cycle.

DEPLETED POPULATION IN RIVER

After five weeks of river flow, what is the status of the Carmel River steelhead? How have five years of drought affected this prized fish? Unfortunately, the news is not good. It appears that one month of flow can't make up for five years of drought. To date, only 6 adult fish were sighted in the Carmel River, and one adult was found in the fish ladder at San Clemente Dam.

In Mid-April, Dave Dettman snorkeled down a five-mile reach from Carmel Valley Village to Garland Ranch Park. He planned to count spawning nests and adult spawners. Sadly, no nests and no adults were found. Last summer, population counts of steelhead and rainbow trout juveniles resulted in about 22,000 fish, which is only one-tenth to one-fifth of normal.

These data point to one fact — the wild Carmel River steelhead run is in trouble. According to Dave, a "remmant run" has been defined as 2,000 adult spawners in the river, compared to a healthy run of 4,000 or more adults. Since less than 10 adults have been spotted this year, and juvenile populations are low, the Carmel River steelhead run is threatened and may be close to extinction.

HUMAN IMPACT ON STEELHEAD POPULATION

We humans, and the water we divert from the Carmel River, are a major cause of the plight of the steelhead. Even in normal rainfall years, the river goes dry for several months due to reduced inflow and because we use more drinking water during warmer periods. Fish may die in pools as the river recedes, or they can't migrate to or from the ocean because there is no river to swim in.

This situation has occurred since the mid-1960s, and this writer believes that it will continue to occur unless (1) everyone who was born or moved here after 1960 leaves town (that's most of us, folks); or (2) a larger dam is built on the Carmel River to trap excess winter flow, then release it in dry months to recharge our aquifers and maintain a perennial stream. As you all know, the water management district is vigorously pursuing Option 2.

DISTRICT FISH RESCUE PROGRAMS

Dave Dettman believes that the fishery cannot recuperate without human help. What are we doing to rectify this situation? The district, with cooperation from Cal-Am, the California Department of Fish and Game (CDFG), and the Carmel River Steelhead Association (CRSA) has worked to help out the fish in the current drought. Dettman, a seasoned professional biologist who was born and raised on the Monterey Peninsula, and has great emotional ties to the Carmel River, was hired in 1989 to develop and carry out a comprehensive program.

We can't do much about the low number of fish in the river and in the ocean right now, but we can work to maximize their survival. When fish get trapped in drying pools, or are unable to reach the ocean due to a dry river, Dettman and district staff (often with volunteer help from CRSA), "rescue" them and transport them to safer areas in the Carmel River. Sometimes fish must be held in ponds until they are old enough to survive in the ocean. For example, Dave just released 125 fish into the ocean that had been rescued and fattened on "natural" foods similar to those eaten in the wild. Dettman also works with Cal-Am and CDFG staff to develop water supply operations that meet community needs with the least impact to fish.

As part of the Mitigation Program for the district's Water Allocation Program, these activities will be expanded over the next five years. At its May 20 meeting, the district will consider an ordinance that would add a user fee on our Cal-Am water bills to pay for fishery and other required mitigations. Due to space limitations, I'll describe those programs as well as other current district fishery activities in a later column.

SOLUTIONS OFFERED

Will these efforts be enough, given the low number of steelhead in the river? Dave notes that CDFG always has the option to bring in fish from another area and plant them in the Carmel River. (In fact, about 20,000 juvenile steelhead from the Mad River in Northern California were planted in the Carmel River in 1981 by CDFG to mitigate for fish losses from siltation.)

Since the mutual goal of all agencies is to keep the wild Carmel River gene pool as pure as possible, importation of stock is a second choice. Dave suggests trying the Mitigation Program for a few years, assuming Mother Nature provides adequate flow, to see if the fishery shows signs of revival. If not, eggs or adults from another nearby basin in Monterey or Santa Cruz County should be considered. Dettman (and many CRSA members) also advocate closing the Carmel River to any fishing for five to 10 years. Thus the population could be brought up to healthy levels more quickly.

DEEP TIES TO THE RIVER

Dave's personal and professional goal is to restore the Carmel River steelhead population to the levels he experienced as a child. He says, "I want my kids to have the pleasure of swimming and fishing in the river like I did."

Dave notes that the steelhead is an indicator species, like the canary in the coal mine, of the health of the Carmel River ecosystem. He supports the New Los Padres Dam proposed by the water management district, even though it will flood some upstream fishery habitat. Why? "Because it will reduce our reliance on pumping ground water in lower Carmel Valley, and will provide year-round streamflow to the ocean except in drought years."

More about fish in a later column. Till then, keep up those good conservation habits! The drought has lessened, but it is not over!

Proud Portraits and Valley Auto had a home run fest April 20. VA's Kyle Breuleux smashed two, while teammates Brian Orosco and Nicholas Kissell hit one apiece; P's David Blagg also added two more to his tally. Sabian Ford (P) tripled. Angela Boyd and Jez Munyer played good VA outfield.

Gepetto's vs. Fourtane's, April 22. F's Ricky Ehrenberg had five hits, including a grand slam; Kenny Kleinkopf also smashed a bases-loaded homer. More great hits: G's Taylor White, Joshua Fischbach, Brian Kroopf; F's Meghan Healy, Brendan Culver-Rease and Nolan Bell. Fielding highlights included a bare-hand catch by Kris Bonifas.

Valley Auto played Carmel Bay Co. April 25 in another big home run game. CBC's Ian Cooney (grand slam), Max Rieser, Ricky Gonzales and VA's Jez Munyer all hit dingers; VA's Angela Boyd and Morgan Borup were noted for good hits as well. VA fielders Nick Kissell and Matt Herbert played good defense.

April 27, Foutane's vs. Sensations: F's Kenny Kleinkopf and Zack Newhouse and Travis Moran (S) joined the home run crowd; Smart hits by Philip Thomberg and Branden Calantoc (F), a double by Mike Bruce (S) and RBIs by F's Meghan Healy, Nolan Bell and Amy Walgenbach (S) rounded out the offensive show. Cardiff Schmitz's great overall fielding (and hot catch), Travis Moran's unassisted double play, and heads-up base running by Jillian Nemeth and Derek Gandzjuk (all S) made for good baseball.

The Carmel Bay Co. vs. Camp Carmel game April 27 featured good hitting by CBC's Lindsay Spaulding and Ricky Gonzales, and CC's Patrick White, Pat Pallastrini and Evan Parker. CBC's Ian Cooney and Chelsea Houseman, and CC's Michael Newman, Zarosh Eggleston and Trey Luster demonstrated great fielding Thunderkids and Valley Auto faced off on April 27. Jez Munyer (VA) and Cory Wood (TK) both homered. Tim Day (VA) sacrificed a certain home run when he stopped to see if the injured pitcher was okay. Gabriel VanEngle (VA), Adrina Bruner and Kristin Wood (TK) were noted for good hits and fielding; Nick Kissell and Justin McChesney Wachs made a great VA defensive team.

MUSTANG: County Mounties topped Carmel Dental 13-6 on April 22, aided by Shawn Cronin's fast pitching. The game's highlight was a 2-run homer by CD's Ryan Lehr. Eduardo Rodas (RBI) and Atticus Culver-Rease had strong CD hits. Good gloves: CM's Curt August and Taylor Hawthorne (catchers); Keith Sames (CM) and James O'Brien (CD).

On April 24, Granite overcame Copies By The Sea 9-5. G's Trevor Fogg (3 RBI triple) and CS' Jame Eccher and Matt Vogel-pohl (doubles) were leading hitters; G's Taylor Schmitz (2 RBI) also nailed a great hit. In sharp mound performances, Chris Crowley (CS) struck out six; Fogg allowed no hits, with 9 K's. Catchers Brian Boitano (G) and Hank Stoffers (CS) were great.

On the Beach beat Carmel Realtors 4-3, April 25. Contributing to the win were great fly catches by pitcher Patrick Greco and fielder Nick Russo, and hot base running by Michael Dorey. Top hitters: CR's Matt Bedell (triple) and Dane Edmondson (triple, double). Sharp fielding: Nick Barrett and Jakob Hendrix (CF).

Granite Construction downed Carmel Dental 16-7, April 27. Barton Vaughan's strong, bases-loaded RBI single and a double by Brian Boitano made an exciting five-run inning for the winners. CD's Keath Moon doubled (3 RBI). Chris Canepa and Josh Soskin (CD) played great infield; and G's Erren Franklin was terrific in his pitching debut.

Copies By The Sea held On the Beach to one run on April 27. despite a double by Seth Perkins and hits by Adam Struve, Nick Russo and Michael Horsley. CS' Jamie Eccher (2-for-2) and Chris Crawley (2-for-3) were leading batters; Lee Lightfoot, Hank Staffers and John Donnelly doubled. The game featured good heads-up baseball by both teams and notable performances from pitchers Patrick Greco and Seth Perkins (OTB) and Chris Peart (CS). Final Mustang standings April 27: Granite, 5-1; County Mounties, 3-1; Copies By The Sea, 3-3; Carmel Realtors, 2-3; On the Beach, 2-3; Carmel Dental, 1-5.

BRONCO: Vessey's overcame La Playa 15-4 on April 24. V's matched pair of Sasha Vorobiov and R.J. Minard (each (3-for-4, double, 2 RBI), Ben Armbrush (2-for-4, 2 RBI), were leading hitters. Good gloves: LP's Jack Camp and Steven Moran; V's Bibliar. Carmel Valley Disposal trounced Bay Bikes 12-4 on April 25. Brian Christensen pitched three scoreless innings and Richard Vega homered and tripled for the win. BB's Sandy Greenfield doubled and hit 3-for-3. CVD's Tony Klevan, Vega, and BB's Tim Greco were effective defensively.

Derek Rayne took a 7-6 win on April 27, despite a late rally by La Playa. LP's Michael Cohen doubled and Morgan Rogers was 2-for-2; Russel Chaplan and Jack Camp were 1-for-2. Chris Langslet (2-for-3) and Ben Cook swung hot bats for the winners.

CVD took the division lead with a 10-9 win over Vessey's on April 27, CVD's Brian Christensen (3-for-4) tatooed homer No. 3; V's SAsha Vorobiov sent one over the fence himself. CVD's Richard Vega (3-for-4) proved a tough pitcher as well, allowing only one hit in three innings. Ben Armbrush (V) doubled and tripled; Noah Cowen (CVD) doubled. Tommy Brant (CVD) and Armbrust (V) were noted fielders.

Also April 27, Bay Bikes rode over Pine Inn 16-9. Top hitters: PI's Beau Oyler (3-for-4, 2 RBI), Patrick Foudy (3-for-4, RBI); BB's Rushad Eggleston (3-for-5, RBI, double) and Sandy Greenfield (3-for-5, 3 RBI). More RBIs: Nick Campbell (PI) and BB's Dylan Pappas (2), Kent Wehde, and Russel Wolter. Justin Henze chipped in a good base hit for the winners.

Bronco standings April 27: CVD, 5-1; Bay Bikes, 4-2; Vessey's, 4-2; Derek Rayne, 2-3; Pine Inn, 2-3; Lay Playa, 0-6.

ROOKIE SB: Conway of Asia's Rugrats squeaked a win over the Toro Park Halos April 27, 11-10. Tesia Miller (double, 2-for-3, 3 RBI) was leading hitter; Margie Barkley scored two runs, made a great fly catch and played excellent defense. Courtney Porter's pitching in the last inning saved the win.

MINOR SB: Carmel Stamp and Coin's Maple Leaves downed rival MPTV 2-1 on April 20. Manager Dave Miller reported, after his team's first four games, "We've had improved play out of Nicole Robinson and Erin Brandewie, outstanding hitting from Cameron Cox, and what we have seen to be the most dominant pitcher in the league with Bridgette Herbert." (Herbert threw five hitless, scoreless innings April 20.) Catcher Erin Miller, versatile Shannon Doherty (batter, first base and closer) and Hannah Gordon drew praise for outstanding achievements. Miller noted, "We are especially pleased with the team attitude and spirit as well as the abundance of team parent support.

Host families sought for Irish children

The Children's Friendship Project For Northern Ireland, Inc. needs American families to host two teens from Northern Ireland, boys or girls, for six weeks this summer.

This program is unique as it pairs one Catholic child with one Protestant child in a loving, caring family. This project hopes to promote understanding through interaction in a neutral environment and build a friendship that will ast, not for an hour or a day, but forever!

The Children's Friendship Project For Northern Ireland was organized to bring children away from conditions of bitterness, misunderstanding and hate in which many of them find themselves today.

Funds raised in the U.S. are through a grassroots effort to cover the children's transportation and insurance. Money raised is tax-deductible and remains in the U.S.

The program is strictly voluntary. If you would like to become a host family, volunteer your services for fund-raising or make a contribution, please contact Cindy Flannery, at (805) 494-1183.

The Golden Years

By Miles Williams Some high school students in Cross River, New York, are getting unusual insights into the everyday life of elderly people. For example, they are asked to button clothing with fingers taped together - to understand what it's like for someone severely handicapped by arthritis. Simulations of impaired dexterity, vision and healing help to prepare the students for volunteer service to elderly residence. The teenagers go to seniors' homes to help with lawn work, vacuuming and other chores. And, the students get a chance to talk with someone who has a different perspective on life.

Julia Child burst on the American scene 30 years ago with her book, "Mastering the Art of French Cooking," and with her cheery, skillful demonstrations on her TV show, "The French Chef." At 77 she published her seventh book, "The Way to Cook," She told an interviewer, "What I like about my profession is that I will never have to retire. It's just so important to stay as active as yo can as you get older."

LASTING PEACE VIGIL SET FOR MAY 5

The local branch of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom announced today that it will renew the Peace Vigil attended by so many local citizens during the October to February phase of the Persian Gulf War.

The purpose is to focus public attention on important issues for building a lasting peace in that region and in the world. The Vigil For a Lasting Peace will be held the first Sunday of each month from noon until 2 p.m. at Window-on-the-Bay Park at Camino El Estero and Del Monte Avenue in Monterey.

Because of our concern over the past practice of arming "friends" who then use those arms against us, the Vigil on May 5 will have as its theme, "Stop the arms sales!" All who would like to see an end to wars as a way of resolving world problems are encouraged to join in this effort.

Each month, following the Vigil in the park, WILPF members and friends will meet at 3 p.m. in the Community Room of the Monterey Library for further discussion and planning of events.

Artists extend invitation to tour homes, studios throughout county

FACING THE Inner Truth is the title of Mike Duffy's sculpture in painted wood.

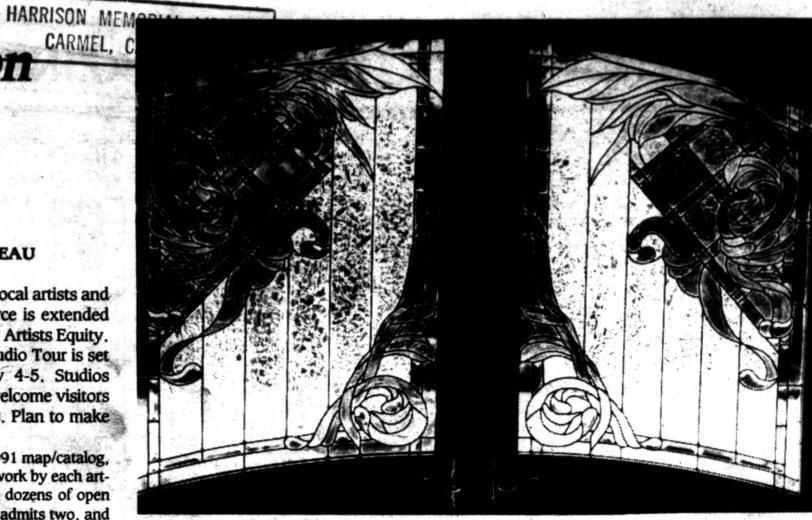

By ANNE PAPINEAU

An Invitation to meet local artists and view their works at the source is extended to the public this weekend by Artists Equity. The Third Annual Artists' Studio Tour is set Saturday and Sunday, May 4-5. Studios from Big Sur to Salinas will welcome visitors 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days. Plan to make a weekend of it.

Your admission ticket is the 1991 map/catalog, which includes photographs of work by each artist in the tour and maps to the dozens of open studios. The catalog costs $10, admits two, and is available through 21 local bookstores and merchants. Catalogs can also be ordered through Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey, 649-5561. For the catalog location nearest you, call 625-4175.

The tour reflects the diversity of mediums and visions utilized by professional artists here. It is self-guided, so viewers can select the region, the mediums, or the artists that interest them most. It embraces long-established peninsula artists and new faces as well.

Shirley Warner will open her home/studio at 27175 Meadows Road in Carmel Valley. A self-

"Collage is a new inventive form for me," she explains. "To make them, I think of particular people, their impact as friends and closeness in real life. Then the adventurer comes forth."

of Art and received a certificate in production graphics from UC Santa Cruz. She works out of her home, which is "like a little Hobbit cave; cute as ever. The ceilings are only 7-feet high. It's been a haven for me."

She also devises fanciful feathered masks. Some have sharp eagle's beaks; all are brightly colored and extravagant.

Warner says that "art is where I'd like to direct myself, but I'm realistic." She supplements her art income by working as chef for artist Eyvind Earle and his wife. She also cares for 60 exotic birds at a home in Pebble Beach.

Warner participated in the tour last year, and said she appreciates this "network of community response; and also the socializing."

Sculptor Mike Duffy served as coordinator of the first and second Monterey County Artists' Studio Tours. This year he is involved as 'just a participant.'

The curious are invited to journey to the Ledbetter Gallery on Lincoln Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues in downtown Carmel. There they will encounter "Toward Another Consciousness."

"I started building dodecahedron sculptures, and I had a lot of strange shapes left over." Duffy observes. "When I put these pieces together they started growing and become this present body of work."

Duffy came to the peninsula seven years ago from San Francisco, where he worked 20 years as an artist in North Beach.

"I've only been a sculptor three years. Before that I created mixed media constructions, all wall pieces. Three years ago they came off the wall and hit the floor running."

Duffy reserves praise for the Monterey Peninsula, not only for its natural beauty but also for its "very supportive art community — that hasn't been available anyplace else I've lived. It's a mean world up in the city. Many artists don't like to get involved."

Duffy is very much involved in the local art community. He is a member of the Pacific Grove Art Center and the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, and is current vice president of Artists' Equity.

"For my particular style of art, which is more avant garde, it's harder to find a market. The studio tour puts me in contact with other artists and patrons. And it makes it possible for the general populace to experience an environment they'd have no access to otherwise."

Diane Colson will show her stained glass at 1209 Buena Vista in Pacific Grove, along with creations by two other artists. She is still recovering from the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake, which destroyed her home and studio in Corralitos.

"We just moved into our new home, which is 50 feet from the fissure caused by the earthquake. It still makes you a little nervous. Every

High school musicians stage high energy jazz concert

By JOHN DETRO

MAYBE IT'S a matter of genetics. Emotional support at home doesn't hurt a bit.

Cindy Sagen remarks with pride that her mother was the first female vibraharp player in the Oakland Musicians' Union. Cindy and husband Kit love jazz; this deeply American music fills their house regularly.

And their son Matt, 16-year-old junior at Carmel High, won the Student All-Star piano slot last weekend when Monterey Jazz Festival held its 21st annual and statewide High School Jazz Competition at the fairgrounds.

Another Carmel High lad, Zack Joseph, captured a chair in the All-Stars trumpet section. Zack's 17 and a junior too.

Big bands, combos and vocal groups showed their stuff at public concert situations since the fest invited all comers to enjoy the high-energy show free of charge. But All-Star candidates performed in closed auditions with pro jazz players who serve as judges. Checking out young pianists, for example, was Tee Carson, picked long ago by Bill Basie to share keyboard chores in the late master's orchestra.

Matt must have played exceptionally well. Winner of the alternate pianist slot was Kito Gamble, strong performer from Berkeley High who already has done many paid jobs with her mother, the jazz vocalist Faye Carol. (Alternates are chosen in case winners can't make the All-Star Japan tour taken each July; All-Stars also get full scholarships to the Summer Jazz Camp of Youth Music Monterey.)

Mike Shannon of Carmel High was rewarded with the alternate drummer's slot. Monterey High's Tanya Darby was named trumpet section alternate. Scott Larson and David Burns from Aptos High both won chairs in the trombone section.

"Wow," Matt said at home when informed by a phone caller of his victory. "I really had no idea that I would make it. I almost didn't go out because of the competition last year. Right now I'm pretty speechless."

"I can't believe it," Zack said. "I'm surprised and excited. I'll plan vacation travels to get back in time for the Japan trip. Music's the international language; now I'll get a chance to prove while Berkeley's tight and flery unit walked off with Combo Division honors. Folsom High topped the list of jazz choir entrants. (The winning big band takes home $1,000 for its music program; combo and vocal victors claim $500

El Cerrito High won the Big Band Division,

El Cerrito's triumph amounted to a last hurrah. That school's in the financially ruined Richmond District, which closed down early on May 1. Band director Paul Yonemura got a lay-off notice before bringing his gang down to Monterey.

"It's sad," Paul said. "I think they'll try to maintain a much-reduced music program next school year. As for me, I'll take some graduate

Since Carmel High had three names on the All-Star roster, the music teacher over there surely deserves mention. Robins. Dick Robins. His high standards paid off. Just ask Matt and Zack and Berkeley High band director Charles Hamilton issued a heartfelt message: "We must get the parents to actively support music in our schools. They're the ones who matter most, but we need everyone's support."

In other student-based music news, Monterey Peninsula College Jazz Ensemble will present its springtime concert at four o'clock Sunday afternoon (5/5) in MPC Music Hall. The public event's a freebie and under the baton of Don Schamber.

Don also will appear as part of the MPC faculty trio with bassist Terry Miller and Marty Bartoli on drums. Special guest for this set: trumpet virtuoso Jay Daversa.

Jay's a Los Angeles studio freelancer and music director at the respected Dick Grove Music School. He has played with some great bands -Stan Kenton, Louie Bellson, Gerald Wilson, Oliver Nelson.

Lectures, gardens distinguish 'Springtime at La Mirada'

THE SIXTH Annual celebration of 'Springtime at La Mirada,' arrives Saturday and Sunday, May 4-5. The public is invited to enjoy the walled gardens and courtyards which are reached by the rhododendron garden and rock terrace ablaze with flowering trees. azaleas, day lilies and other seasonal plants. Hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Presented by the Friends of La Mirada, an auxiliary of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the tours include the interior of the house with its antiques and fine decorative art, paintings from the Museum's permanent collection and the outstanding pewter collection of the late Alfred Fry. Seasonal Flower arrangements will highlight each room. An orchid display by Rosalie Bier will be featured in the Entry Courtyard.

On Saturday, May 4 from 10:30 a.m. until noon and again on Sunday, May 5 from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Fred Johnson will be in the rose garden to discuss general rose culture and container roses. At 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, there will be special demonstrations by Ikebana International's Jean Chapman, Eunice Shiffman and Carol Marchette. Saturday, May 4 at 4 p.m. City of Monterey Park Superintendent Douglas Stafford will give a slide presentation and lecture on 32 historic gardens while Renee Sheperd of Sheperd's Garden Seeds will discuss the sweet pleasures of a lemon garden at 4 p.m. on Sunday, May 5.

Many new varieties and old favorites may be found in the Maud Porter Work Rose Garden, while the charming herb garden, dedicated to the memory of Nelle Curry Fry, features culinary, medicinal, fragrant and beautifying plants. The Julia "Pat" Peden Rhododendron Garden features over 300 varieties, while Maddeni rhododendrons are to be found in the adjoining City of Monterey Lagunita Park.

The "Shop in the Garden" is overflowing with delightful gift items from stationery to potpourri, hand-made aprons, and dried flower confections as well as topiaries and miniature roses.

As parking is limited, shuttle service will be provided from the lower MPC parking lot. A donation of $5 is suggested, ($4 for museum members) for maintenance of the house and our teenaged heroine survive the experience with her virtue and ideals intact? Would her faithful beau prevail against the competition? Would any adolescent in town ever be the same again?

For more information, call La Mirada at 372-3689.

Find the answers to these and other questions any Friday, Saturday or Sunday evening at Monterey's New Wharf Theater. The show is Bye Bye. Birdie and it's a sure cure for the blues. It's all in the spirit of fun - a frothy, melodious entertainment set to memorable and well-crafted tunes. It's a nostalgic trip for adults and a reminder to kids of all ages that, despite changing mores, basic human concerns remain the same.

Directorially speaking, the play's a winner. Zip and effervescence are paramount to the success of any musical comedy production. Thanks to directors Barney Hulse, Cassie Reed (who also choreographed) and music director Heidi Toy, the bubbles keep rising. A youthful cast such as this one presents delights and challenges all its own. It's no mean task to harness and direct all that natural talent and exuberance, and Hulse, Reed, and Toy have done it well. The kids sparkle and bounce on the Wharf's tiny stage, filling it with their vitality.

The teenagers are: Jenean Severino, Rosie Munger, Tara Anderson, Joie Lee, Shanti Heard, Kirsten Gallentine, Nicole Sparks, Margo Sperry, Lillian Sperry, Jill Larson, Justin McChesney and Nicholas Pahl.

Conrad Birdie, the ladykiller, is sung and acted with slither and insinuation by Chad Greulach, whose standout number is a hot rendition of "A Lot of Livin' To Do." The role of Albert Peterson, Conrad's dithering manager and reluctant suitor to his secretary, Rosie, marks Garrett Gould's debut as a musical leading man. It's a good beginning and we would like to see Gould (who is a valued designer and technician) explore this aspect of theater even further. From "Put on a Happy Face" to the sentimental finale, "Rosie," he performs with charm and appeal.

How could anyone be recalcitrant about marrying Rosie when she's played by the enchanting Soraya Knight? This multi-talented performer has been blessed with a rising star since her days at Monterey High School. Keep your eyes on this captivator; she's going places! "An English Teacher," "What Did I Ever See in Him," and the amusing "Spanish Rose" all benefit from Knight's singing and acting abilities.

And then there are the MacAfees, the prototypical American family whose daughter Kim is to be the recipient of that infamous "Kiss." Mr. M. is played to a "T" by Howard Hinckley - it's a grand comic performance, and in conjunction with his Mrs. (Kaylene Burton in another humorous role) and son, Randolph (in the person of a talented young dynamo named Kyle Griffith) he does a knockout rendition of the popular number "Kids." Kim (in a strong and credible interpretation by Nicole Hostetler) joins her family in the satiric "Hymn for a Sunday Evening (Ed Sullivan)" and "What Did I Ever See in Him," and the touching solo "How Lovely to be a Woman."

Chris Greulach is natural and believable as Kim's temporarily displaced boyfriend, Hugo Peabody. Albert's classic clinging 'Mom," Mae Peterson is deftly portrayed by Artemis Ledesma. Leslie Williams provides and bright and funny cameo as Gloria

The big production numbers work very well and are all cleverly staged. Many performers do double and even triple duty: it's a large and cohesive company which is obviously having great fun with this truly comedic musical. The satire is gentle and the laughs are genuine.

Toy's trio - she at the piano, Mike Wecker on drums, David Lewis on bass, did a nice job. Technically it's just fine; lights by Gould, set by Renata Yundt and Scot Rainer, stage management by Leslie Williams. No credit is given for costuming; it, too is appropriate with one very amusingly placed American flag to watch

This is a fun musical – it's lively enough to appeal to preteens. and even offers a special bonus to those of us who remember the '50s with its continuous slide show of period artifacts!

See it at the Wharf Theater in Monterey, weekend evenings through July 16. Call 372-1373.

Enameling course offered at MPC

Pacific Grove artist Carol Holaday will teach "Introduction to Enameling" at Monterey Peninsula College as part of the college's summer session.

Class will run June 22 to Aug. 10, Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3

Students will learn the basic techniques for enameling on metal as well as advanced techniques such as cloisonne and champleve. The course is designed to accommodate all levels of artistic and technical ability with the starting point for each student being his or her own level of expertise.

Anyone interested in registering for this class may contact MPC at 646-4000 for further information. Students must register in person at the admissions and records office.

An exhibit of enamels created by Holaday's students will be on display in the MPC Library during the month of May.

Concurrently, the Monterey Public Library on Pacific Street will feature an informative display related to the art of enameling on metal. A variety of techniques will be illustrated with photographs of student enamels.

Bare Bones

Bare Bones, an original play by Debra Ehrmann, continues at various peninsula venues.

The play is the story of six women who were abused as children, and the impact of that abuse on their adult lives. The framework for the play is a peer-facilitated support group where the characters break through from denial to ending the cycle of being abuse victims by sharing their secrets and drawing strength, insight and hope from each other.

Ehrmann, a local writer, has been a spiritual counselor in Monterey for many years. Her last play, Borderline, dealt with the generational effects of alcoholism.

Robert Colter is making his debut as director. In addition to the opening, Bare Bones will be performed at York School on May 4, and at the Pacific Grove Art Center on May 18. All performances are at 8 p.m. For ticket information, call 649-5561.

The two Jacks

Two well-known musical Jacks will be making appearances here in the coming weeks.

Near-legendary folksinger Ramblin' Jack Elliott will perform Wednesday, May 8 at the cozy Portofino Cafe in Pacific Grove while near-legendary roadhouse piano player Champion Jack Dupree puts in his time a week later (May 15) at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row.

Ramblin' Jack is known as much for the company he keeps as his singing, playing and songwriting. To wit: He lived and toured with folk music legend Woody Guthrie for years; Mick Jagger bought his first guitar after hearing him in the 1950's; Bob Dylan was one of his proteges, Jack taught Arlo Guthrie to play guitar; Jackson Browne and Bill Cosby both opened for Jack and Bruce Springsteen visited his dressing room as a young fan; and he was friends with James Dean and later married one of Dean's girlfriends.

But of course his enduring appeal lies in his performing, singing, and storytelling. But perhaps his greatest strength is in his interpretations of songs, such as Tim Hardin's If I Were A Carpenter and Jerry Jeff Walker's Mr. Bojangles.

There will be two shows - 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. - with singer-guitarist Michael Beck, in town to record his latest album, opening both. Advance tickets are available at Portofino. Info's at 373-7379.

Meanwhile at Doc Ricketts', Champion Jack Dupree, making his first tour to California in more than 20 years, will perform two shows of his New Orleans roadhouse piano on May 15. More on that show next week.

In keeping with Doc's eclectic musical offerings, reggae rapper Tippa Irie will perform along with Peter Spence at 9 p.m. Tuesday, May 7. Tippa Irie first album Is it Really Happening to Me produced a Top 20 hit in England, Hello Darling. Ah Me Dis is his first American release, on IRS Records.

A crooner in the tradition of Maxi Priest and Luther Vandross, Peter Spence also has an album out on IRS, I'll Be There. His first hit in the UK was Frivolous Woman, and he opened for Pato Banton on his North American club tour last year.

Tickets are $10 and are available at the usual outlets as well as at the door: 649-4241.

Also on tap in the next week will be blues blasters Johnny Nitro and the Doorslammers, with harp whiz Andy Just (who often fronts his own kickin' blues band). They'll appear Thursday, May 2, the band's last performance before heading out on a European tour. Showtime is 9 p.m. and best of all, there's no cover. Forget the American Tin Cannery, this is the bargain of the week folks.

Upcoming at Doc's: those wild boys (and girls) of The Tubes return to the peninsula after a long absence on Monday, May 13. If anyone in the band looks a little familiar, they may well be, because the peninsula's own Jenny McPhee has come out from behind the sound board to perform on stage with the band. But she's well acquainted with the limelight, she used to make appearances with The Medflys and even had a song written about her, Tommy Tutone's 867-5309 Jenny. Welcome back.

AT LAST, the day you multi-plex freaks have been waiting for has arrived.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony to open the new six-plex Galaxy Theatre, formerly Cinema 70 in the Del Monte Shopping Center, will be held at 4:30 p.m. Friday, May 3.

WOLFE TRACKS — Singer and songwriter Warren John Wolfe will perform on Sunday evening (5/5) at Shanty Malone's in Carmel Valley's Valley Hills Center. The solo act will start at six o'clock. Wolfe's a strong vocalist whose material ranges from jazz and romantic ballads to urban soul. If dinner out sounds attractive, know that Shanty Malone's chef Ken Weeks has assembled a really fine menu.

From 5 to 7 p.m. there will be a benefit party for the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Visitors and Convention Bureau. Tickets to the benefit party include a free movie, which begins at 7:30.

The new theater seats a total of more than 1,300 patrons, including two 300-seat auditoriums with George Lucas-designed THX Dolby stereo sound. All six theaters will have wide screens, plush curved seating and arm rests with cup holders.

Other features include computerized ticketing and an expanded concession menu, including American Glace, a fat-free dessert in chocolate and vanilla, hot dogs, nachos and Uvlic mineral water. There will also be video monitors in the lobby showing previews of coming attractions.

So far the selections look promising: advance word has it that the two critically acclaimed films The Long Walk Home with Whoopi Goldberg and Sissy Spacek and Mr. Johnson with Pierce Brosnan, directed by Bruce Beresford will debut at the theater.

Other films slated for the weekend opening includes Sylvester Stallone's new farce (yes, farce, but this time he's doing it purposefully), Oscar; Peter Weir's Green Card and Awakenings; a double feature of Shipwrecked and White Fang; matinee showings of The Neverending Story II (contender for Most Appropriate Title of the Year); and Stephen King's scary Misery, which won Kathy Bates a Best Actress Academy Award this year.

Coming May 10: FX2, the long-awaited sequel to the underrated FX, and Switch, a promising comedy from Blake Edwards in which a hopeless womanizer dies and is reincarnated as a beautiful, sexy woman (the hot, hot, hot Ellen Barkin).

As ALWAYS The Catalyst in Santa Cruz is offering a wide array of talent in May, starting with former Byrds leader Roger McGuinn (who is touring with Steve Winwood), May 1.

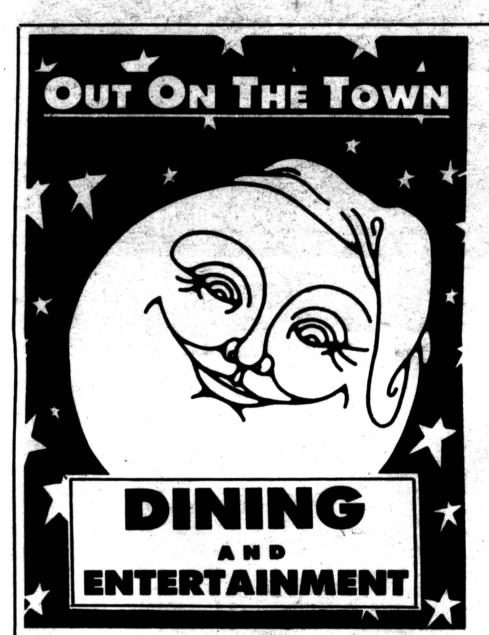

Other notables to jot down on your calendar: The Busboys, May 3; Book of Love, May 5; Marshall Tucker Band, May 14; Tuck & Patti, May 15; Batteries, May 16; The Tubes, May 18; Bob Mould, May 22; Throwing Muses, May 24; John Wesley Harding, May 25; Pete Escovedo, May 31, and for June 1, Jr. Walker & The All-Stars. Tickets are available at all BASS outlets. Call 423-1336 for info.

IT MAY be a tad early, but here's the lineup for the Steinbeck Music Festival, slated for July 13 and 14 at Bolado Park at San Benito County Fairgrounds in Hollister.

On the bill for Saturday will be New Riders of the Purple Sage, The Edlos, Horse Opry, Solid Air, Steve Kritzer & Friends, David Beaudry and Steve Seskin. On Sunday the bill includes Seldom Scene, Dr. Loco & His Rockin' Jalapeno Band, David Maloney, Mystery Train with Steve Rice and Johnny Perri (of Eddie & the Tide fame), Alisa Fineman, Harmony Grits and Gospel Hour.

The event, which will also feature camping, swimming, food booths, arts and crafts and special children's programs, is a benefit for the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council. Tickets, available at the gate or through BASS outlets, are $10 each day, $5 each day for children and seniors, with children 5 and under free.

Info's at 633-2484.

BURLY BILL'S — Family prices for breakfast, lunch and dinner make this downtown Monterey restaurant extremely popular. Daily specials, pies, pastas, delicious soups...all homemade. Burgers, shakes. Fresh salad bar and a truly cheerful atmosphere (such waitresses as Carol and Kit make patrons feel right at home). You'll find the portions generous...owners Bill and Joann respect how hard folks work for their money. 400 Tyler (corner of Tyler and Franklin).

CARMEL MUSIC CO. — Come meet Dexter Johnson...luthier. That's the time-honored job title worn by makers of stringed instruments. Dexter offers hand-crafted guitars and mandolins along with new and used Martins, Gibsons, Santa Cruz models, Taylors. All band instruments, banjos, music needs. You'll never experience sales pressure at this deeply interesting shop on Dolores near Fifth in downtown Carmel. 624-8078. Workshops and master classes announced through this newspaper.

DOC RICKETTS' LAB — Monterey County's only major showcase featuring famous rock, jazz, blues, and country acts. Wynton Marsalis, Kris Kristofferson, Chris Isaak, and John Mayall have performed at Doc's. Weekends there's never a cover charge when you dance to quality rock bands. An intimate club with Monterey County's only professional sound and light system. Full-service bar and a friendly staff to serve you. Located in Cannery Row at 95 Prescott. Call 649-4241 for more information.

HELLAM'S TOBACCO SHOP — The Hellam family has been in this same business since 1892. And what a fascinating place. Tobacco products and pipes from all over the world. Rare gift items, joke gifts and tricks, adult party items. Lee Hellam and his staff take plenty of time with customers while consulting on fine tobaccos and, for another example, pipe care and supplies. Stop by and browse...it's a fun-packed stop on anyone's shopping trip. 423 Alvarado in downtown Monterey.

SHANTY MALONE'S — Prize-winning chef Ken Weeks and delightful wife Victoria make the most of this beautiful room and Carmel Valley setting. California/Continental Cuisine will satisfy, indoors or out on the romantic deck. Live music nightly — jazz, European classical, blue grass. Beer, wine, espresso. And an atmosphere which allows chats with the chef about your preparation specs. Valley Hills Center (beside Quail Lodge). Saturday night (5/5)...Dance Night with the hot Latin band Toccara, 626-0604.

THE CENTRAL TEXAN BBQ — "This stuff is real. Y'all come." So says witty proprietor Don Elkins. He and wife Janet tend the oak smoked pit. Briskets, pork and beef ribs, homemade sausage, side dishes that complement perfectly. Take-out, children's plates, three-meat combos, country music. "Longnecks and wine," Don adds. "Sawdust on the floor. We don't style after nobody; they try to style after us." Open Wed.-Sun., 11 a.m.-9 p.m. 10749 Merritt St., Downtown Castroville. 633-2285.

THE ROSE AND CROWN — Traditional British pub and restaurant celebrates good food and fun right in downtown Monterey. Hearty menu items include Irish Stew, Cottage Pie, Bangers and Mash (sausages plus mashed potatoes). British beers — 10 draft, two dozen bottled. Weekly dart tourneys, bar games, special events. Monday: British Comedy Night with Monty Python on the telly. Pete and Rosemary Blackwell encourage tall tales round the fireplace and player piano too. Comfy, reasonably-priced. 479 Alvarado.

TOOTS LAGOON — Fabulous place for fabulous folks. Bill Oates, Ed Johnson, David Lange...these Toots execs are happy campers whose spirit permeates. Romantic dinners? Family outings? Groups? Here's the spot. Ribs, seafood, pasta, great steaks, salads, appetizers, desserts. Open for lunch or dinner seven days per week. Full bar, lots of evening activity, a different chef's special each night. Dolores and Seventh, Carmel. 625-1915.

TRI-COUNTY LIMO — "Try us first." Cole Porter would have written a song about the rare quality offered by this Cadillac fleet of Ken Rose and Robert Vaccarezza. Each vehicle (2-6 passengers) has color TV, VCR, FM/AM cassette, stocked bar on request. The perfect touch for birthdays, graduation, weddings, proms, any special occasion. Tours, airport service. Call for rates...647-8002 or 1-800-822-LIMO.

Entertainment round-up

Comic Jimmie Walker, perhaps best known for playing J.J. "Dyn-o-mite" Evans on the TV series Good Times, will appear at Sharky's Club in downtown Monterey on Wednesday (5/8).

Walker will do two shows — 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Sharky's doors will open at 6 p.m. that evening to allow for early seating. Ducats cost $13 per. Available at Sharky's and Ticketmaster outlets.

Jimmie says he no longer uses the "Dyn-o-mite" hook in his act. "It's not part of my reality as a comic," he says. "It's only part of my reality in terms of television popularity. I've always believed that one should not stand on TV fame, but that one should do what one does."

Meanwhile, Hidden Valley Music Seminars announces that Sacramento Ballet will fill the May 10 slot (a Friday night), in the current series out there. Tickets cost $10 each and may be obtained via Center Stage Ticketing.

Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra salutes Beethoven

THE MONTEREY BAY Chamber Orchestra, playing Sunday afternoon in Carmel's Sunset Theater under the direction of conductor Michael Nowak, performed an all-Beethoven program. This was a distinct departure from their usual musical territory. It was an ambitious, exciting undertaking which showed much about the strengths and weaknesses of the orchestra.

The high point of the afternoon was the apearance of the Francesco Trio with the orchestra in Beethoven's "Triple Concerto in C Major for Piano, Violin and Cello" Op. 56. Cast in Handelian concerto grosso form, with pianist Nathan Schwartz, violinist Miwako Watanabe and cellist Bonnie Hampton as a star quality concertino, this delightfully repetitious music was a joy to listen to. Generally the cellist leads off in the upper treble reaches of the instrument and than is echoed by the violin and piano. Each one gets a chance at the unusually charming (for Beethoven) melodic lines, though the cellist is always the one most at risk technically. Ms. Hampton was a very worthwhile leader and she was ably imitated or responded to by Watanabe and Schwartz.

The Largo opens with a cello solo played with a fine singing expressive tone. The piano supplied harmonic embroidery and the violin responses were very sensitive. The concertino group solo was very fine.

The closing movement, a rondo in polonaise form, was vivacious and joyous. It began with yet another well played stratospheric cello solo and then the concertino seemed to engage in a musical contest with each other with gratifying results. All throughout, the orchestra played brightly and solidly both as the expositors of the musical material and as background support. Understandably, most of one's attention was centered on the substantial soloistic endeavers of the Francesco Trio.

The program opened with the "Symphony No. 7 in A Major" Op. 92, which is a large scale undertaking for an orchestra of this size and it says much for the courage and willingness of music director Michael Nowak to take his musicians in this direction. He drew some fine results from the group and he and they certainly deserve more than an A for effort.

single window in our home was destroyed, and all my work was also."

The artist, her husband and three teenaged children lived for a year in a 500-square-foot cabin on their property.

"Life is never dull," she asserts. "I'm still really trying to catch up with that earthquake."

Although Colson does not advertise, she has a steady flow of commissions for custom stained glass entryways, decorated mirrors, windows, lamps and more. She also produces enough designs to be represented in a number of galleries, including the Valley Art Gallery in Salinas and Gallery One in Big Sur.

"My whole family is very supportive in helping me do this as a business instead of just a hobby," she adds.

Lately she has been challenging herself by producing designs in a broad range of clear glass. For this she often employs brass instead of the traditional lead between the glass pieces, and "lots and lots of bevels. I use clear antique glass, baroque glass."

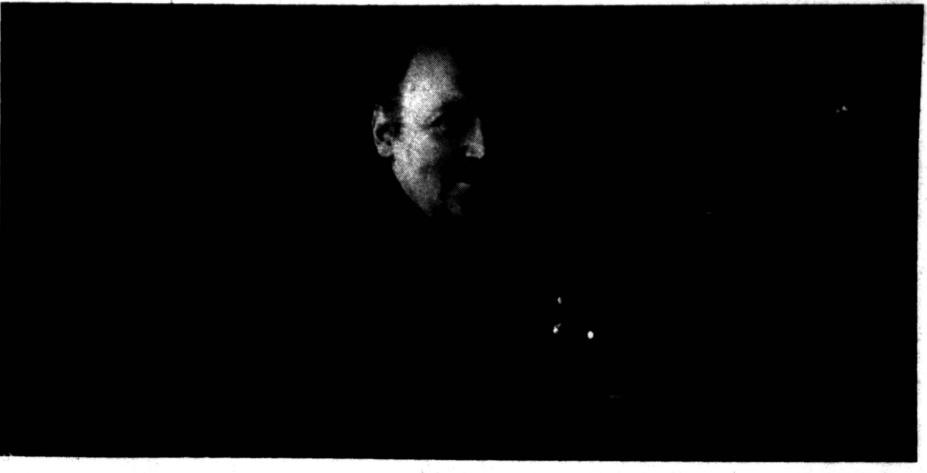

Much of her inspiration is taken from nature, but sometimes an interesting and very speific request comes her way.

"Once I produced the top of a Victorian doll house that a woman ordered. That was an interesting project. The panels were only 1-by-10-inches."

Some 68 Monterey County artists are represented in this year's Open Studio Tour. Viewers will see painting, photography, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry and more. For additional information. call 625-4175.

'El Vucko' and company at Hidden Valley

THIS FRIDAY, May 3, Hidden Valley's Friday at 8 series presents Concord recording artist Larry Vuckovich and his quartet, featuring Pete Escovedo. Pianist Vuckovich, who is originally from Yugoslavia, has been based in New York City

He elicited precision and crispness from musicians who are under the double handicap of not playing together except briefly before a concert which is a one shot affair and also, who do not play regularly since they are mostly not full time professionals. As played by this orchestra, the symphony had an almost Schubertian character (after all, Austrian and German composers were superb masters of writing for chamber orchestras). Nowak set his musicians in motion with a fine directional flair, leading them to emphasize light, dancing rhythms in an animated, yet unhurried tempo. He leads with vitality but is always in control. His beat is a pillar of strength and his musicianship is always evident.

The Allegretto had a fine pulse and came to a shaped climax full of earnestness and devotion.

The Scherzo was jaunty and flavorful. The Trio spotlighted oboist Donna Forster whose playing was noteworthy throughout the entire work.

The Finale was energetic and well proportioned, but for those of us who are conditioned to the "Big Band" sound, the fullness and depth of tone was lacking.

While I hope the musicians enjoyed their outing into the larger musical world, they would be best served by staying in the niche they set aside for themselves. Maestro Nowak, fine and knowledgeable musical director that he is, can surely build programs tailored to the strengths of his musicians while adding variety to what can be made available to peninsula audiences.

for the past six years. His latest CD, called "Tres Palabras," mixes Afro-Cuban, Brazilian and Middle Eastern themes with jazz. For ticket information, call 649-5561 or 659-3115.

Standup guy

So JIMMY Lyons knows for sure today that he's in his final year as general manager of Monterey Jazz Festival. Rapid developments must have hit his heart like a club.

Jimmy told me, the last time we chatted in his fairgrounds office, that the rumors had not escaped the man's ear. He was angry, Jimmy said, but wouldn't address the matter unless it emerged at April's board meeting. It didn't and he kept pressurized, mature silence.

He had every chance then to rave at and slam the fest board members who were choosing Jimmy's successor. Jimmy Lyons refused the easy way and thereby took on real dignity.

Jimmy sighed and played with the papers on his desk. He pulled himself up and released some new stuff about this year's edition. Clarinet master Buddy DeFranco had been signed as guest artist with Japanese clarinet star Eiji Kitamura's group. And: "Some guys want to film the (1991) festival. I'll find out more. Ask me about it later."

Shortly thereafter, insiders came forth with tips that turned rumors into undeniable facts. There was no way I could ignore those tips and still do my job. One call to MJF board president Doc Etienne confirmed everything — there would be changes at the top.

Scoops are big fun — especially when an increasingly scrappy weekly newspaper goes up against an increasingly pompous daily. Jimmy's a pro and would never ask any writer to sit on a newsbreak till the time factor had become more comfy and politically convenient. The stories have been filed. Lyons will co-produce with Kuumbwa Jazz Center's Tim Jackson in 1992 and then step down. What now?

I have no big answers. When I was an Oakland street kid, the jazz radio shows of Jimmy Lyons and Don Barksdale were the primary evidence that adults meant well and that things like art and history had practical meaning. Any discipline I found came from tracking down the differences between jazz pretenders and honest creators. Jimmy was an early hero in one goofy boy's life.

Journalism can get real weird, feelingwise. The same sort of bind happened once before. The fine American poet Kenneth Patchen was a mentor and friend. He got up from his bed of unsayable pain (progressive spinal disintegration) and gave me the last interview he ever put out there. Capra Press issued the material in its old chapbook series. The story was told and I saw this personal hero bend before time's occasionally bitter roll.

But wait. Maybe losses only look like losses. Patchen said in the Palo Alto backyard: "I think poets can be great going down the damndest hill anyone might imagine." He demonstrated that truth by speaking it for the future when most other men would have kept to their final beds. And today I feel some link between Kenneth's words and Jimmy Lyons.

Jimmy knew that the ax might fall. He could have blasted official decision-makers. This he refused to do. The street would call him "a standup guy."

You know, the late jazz critic Ralph Gleason helped Jimmy shape the MJF vision. In later years, Ralph's columns sometimes roasted fest programming without reservation. Jimmy and Ralph remained tight pals. Two standup guys.

The only possible conclusion: Jimmy's intrinsic class came through when all the chips were down. How fine that he'll get his desired 35th year and orderly retirement at age 75. Whatever else happens, the man who sat at that desk and conducted business as usual was a human being of courage and discernment. Amen.

Doc Etienne came off pretty well too. Doc gave me the newsbreak on one condition. "I love and respect him," Doc said. "Let me talk with Jimmy first."

This's the way genuine adults carry themselves. If there's some sadness in the situation, there's honor and compassion too. And, on Jimmy's part, for that hard moment at his office, something much like greatness.

MIXED BAG: Carmel Music Co. announces that the local firm's presenting David Grisman in a Mandolin Workshop at one o'clock Sunday afternoon (5/5) at Sunset Center's Chapman Room. Costs $20 per; seating limited. Call 624-8078 for reservations.

Grisman had lucrative contracts with Warner and MCA. "I swore off the big record companies," he says. "They don't care about musicians and music. So I'm doing it myself, being my own record company with a couple of friends in San Rafael. Somehow a market finds us."

Meanwhile, back at Valley Hills Center beside Quail Lodge. Shanty Malone's offers a knockout Brazilian band for dancing on Saturday night (5/4) from 8-12. The aggregation's Tocara — flute, horn, voices, two electrified classical guitars.

Door charge of $5 per. Prize-winning chef Ken Weeks will have Brazilian dishes on the menu that evening.

More Latin sounds. On Friday night (5/3), Hidden Valley Music Seminars will bring in the quartet of pianist Larry Vuckovich and master percussionist Pete Escovedo. Extraordinary bill.

Tickets cost $12.50 apiece and may be bought at the box office right before showtime. Eight o'clock kick.

SIGHT BITES: Excellent Brazilian keyboardist Weber Drummond fronts the sextet that will do a benefit for Church of Religious Science on Tuesday evening (5/7). The concert starts there at eight o'clock. Church address — 400 West Franklin in downtown Monterey.

Proceeds will go into the grand piano fund. A graduate from the University of Rio (1985), Weber won many classical piano competitions at his homeland. As a jazz artist, he has performed on concert slates with such as Gilberto Gil, Herbie Hancock, Wayne Shorter, famed percussionist Helcio Milito.

Other musicians for the gig: Joseph Lucido (guitar and guitar synth), Terry Miller (electric bass), Kenny Stahl (flute and soprano sax), Brian Stock (trumpet), Mark Rudney (drums). Pacific Grove resident Milito will appear as special guest.

It's $8 per and a good cause. Info: 649-3752. Event sponsors include Carmel Music, Michele Marie Photography, Portofino Cafe, Rainbow Scent.

 The next jazz lecture in Monterey Peninsula College's Spring Faculty Series will happen at noon on Wednesday, May 15. Noted arranger and MPC Creative Arts Chairman Don Schamber will discuss big bands. Freebie.

 Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz offers the Henry Threadgill group on Monday night (5/6). Center Stage Ticketing.

- Herbie Hancock has written the score for Livin' Large. The film's about a ghetto lad who makes it big in broadcast news and loses his roots and spirit. Release time: this summer.

Tickets go on sale Sunday (5/5) for the Paul Masson Summer Series. The full jazz schedule ran here a few weeks ago. Headliners include George Benson, Larry Carlton, Ray Charles, Chick Corea, Robert Cray, Etta James, Stanley Jordan, Miriam Makeba, Wynton Marsalis, Bobby McFerrin, Modern Jazz Quartet, Maceo Parker, Diane Reeves, George Shearing, Take Six, Weslia Whitfield, Joe Williams. Details via 1-741-5181.

 Great double bill coming up shortly (5/8-12) at Kimball's East in Emeryville. Harper Brothers plus Terence Blanchard.

NIGHT SOUNDS: Bassist Norm Ross hosting jam sessions at The Firehouse (Thursdays and Saturdays), Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra at Sharky's (Mondays), pianist Ace Hill and pals at Doubletree Lounge (Thursdays through Saturdays), trumpet man Ron Coolidge's group at Shanty Malone's (Tuesdays) followed by the Jackie Coon Band (Thursdays), Monica Harle Trio plus trumpeter Jay Daversa at Highlands Inn (Fridays and Saturdays), Roger Eddy Band at Bindel's (Fridays and Saturdays), Milito and Drummond at Spanish Bay (Thursdays through Saturdays). Boppa Nova plays for jazz brunch at Kiewel's Cafe in Heritage Harbor (11-3 Sundays).

PEN PLAYFULNESS — Carmel artist Bill Bates did ink sketch of Wynton Marsalis while the young trumpet star was gigging at Doc Ricketts' Lab near Cannery Row. At this writing, the venue was negotiating with trumpet man Freddie Hubbard for a June date.

Student artists open professional show

ARTISTS WHO are also students at Carmel High School will have the rare opportunity to exhibit their work in a professional gallery beginning Thursday, May 2. Handworks/P.R. Coonley Gallery presents the second annual Carmel High Craft Invitational at its gallery on Dolores Street near Seventh Avenue in downtown Carmel. The show runs through May 16.

Students have been busy the past two months preparing and selecting their work for display. As in a "real show," the students have to go through the steps that build an exhibit. These include submitting work for approval by the art staff, preparing it for display and deciding on titles and prices.

Selections have been made from Carmel High School's classes in jewelry, design, textiles, advanced studio art and woodworking. A special three-week artist-in-residence class is providing the sculpture projects.

Some of the work selected for display includes handmade paper wall pieces, silk streamers dved with a variety of techniques, pillows handprinted with silkscreen or tie dye techniques. bowls created of pieced and lathe or handcarved wood, gold and silver rings and earrings. carved alabaster and a variety of mixed-media pieces.

Handworks Gallery Manager Jane Poe said the gallery staff looks forward to offering an annual show of student work each spring. For more information, call 624-8198.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Board of Directors of Monterey-Salinas Transit will hold a public hearing to receive public comment on the re-routing of lines 4-CARMEL RANCHO and 5-CARMEL POINT.

The proposed changes involve re-routing line 4 off of San Carlos Street and onto Monte Verde Street in Carmel. This change would restore two-ways service all day long between Carmel and the Carmel Point area.

The proposed changes also involve re-routing of lines 4 and 5 off of Carpenter Street and onto Highway One between Highwa 68 and Ocean Avenue. This c hange is necessary to allow time to restore service to Carmel Pont. Carpetner Street will continue to be served by line 24 hourly in each direction.

The hearing will be held in conjunction with the regular MST Board meeting on Monday, May 13, 1991 at 9:30 a.m. at the Monterey City Hall Council Chambers, Monterey City Hall is located at Pacific and Jefferson Streets and can be reached by MSt line 3 or any MST route serving the Jules Simoneau Transit Plaza.

Interested person who are unable to attend the hearing may submit written comments to: Sonia A. Rosete, Secretary Monterey-Salinas Transit One Ryan Ranch Road Monterey, CA 93940

Written comments received before May 13, 1991 will be made part of the hearing record. (s)Sonia A. Rosete

CARMEL ESTATE

This home has been recently remodeled and updated to reflect a more contemporary appeal that is not fully appreciated from the exterior. The circular driveway presents an inviting entrance to your guests without the typical "garage doors" to greet them. The garage is around back with direct access to the kitchen just as it should be. The entry leads into the large living room with a "wall of windows" facing south across the brick patio and yard. The other wall features a large brick fireplace and built in bookshelves all of which is complemented by bleached oak floors. The dining room sits just off the living room on your way to the totally remodeled kitchen. It features top of the line appliances, including custom refrigerator, vaulted wood ceiling, island wet bar and adjoining breakfast nook or cozy family room. The guest quarters are up 1/2 flight of stairs and would make either a fantastic master suite or terrific game/family room with its own kitchen and adjoinig bedroom and bath. At the other end of the home are 2 more bedrooms separated by a bath plus the master suite all of which look out on a private brick patio. The master has a large Jacuzzi tub and separate shower and a 9'x11" walk-in closet. Other nice touches throughout are plantation shutters, 9' ceilings with crown moulding, pastel wallpaper and many wood & glass sliding doors. Let's not forget there is a $600,000 assumeable loan also. $775,000

SPCA needs towels, linens

A plea to the general public is being made by the SPCA of Monterey County for clean towels, sheets, blankets and pillowcases for use in the animal shelter and wildlife center.

Blankets are used as comforters for the many pupples who are brought to the shelter because no one wants them. Prior to their being adopted, the shelter staff tries to make them as comfortable as possible and using blankets helps.

The greatest demand is for clean towels both in the shelter and in the wildlife center.

Donated items can be delivered to the SPCA animal shelter, 1002 Monterey-Salinas Highway 68 (across from Laguna Seca Recreation Area) any day of the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If the donor has a significant quantity and cannot deliver them to the shelter, arrangements can be made to pick them up.

For more information, call 373-2631 or 422-4721.
